CANVASSERS ARE BUSY AT IT TODAY

Many More Work For New Members
in Chamber of Commerce Than Any Day of Campaign.

LARGEST CROWD AT LUNCH

20 New Members Are Added Today
and Indications Are That Number Will be Larger Tomorrow.

Twenty more new names are chalked up on the Chamber of Commerce score board today and still the good work goes on. Four or five teams of canvassers were at work this afternoon and the prospects for the largest addition since the campaign began are in store for tomorrow.

That the enthusiasm in the project is increasing daily is indicated by the attendance at the noon luncheons. The largest crowd which has ever been present lined up around the table at the Scanlan house today. There were sixteen present and every man is going out to bring another back with him tomorrow and there is a strong likelihood that the crowd will be doubled.

This seems to be the solution of the problem of obtaining workers. When the men come to the lunch, they become enthused and willingly go out and devote an hour or two to the canvass. This is the reason why so many teams were at work this afternoon. The workers were at the lunch and they were filled with the enthusiasm of others, if they had none before they came.

It does not follow necessarily that when a person attends the luncheon, he or she is compelled to make a canvass as a member of a team by sheer force. Those who attend have the opportunity of helping, and if they feel they can not spare the time, that settles the question.

The very fact that the best results have been ordered in the last few days indicates that the Chamber of Commerce is assured because the interest in the proposition is increasing and every new member means another booster. The more boosters there are, the sooner will the whole city be canvassed and the organization can be started under way.

The names of the new members are added to the list on page 4 just as fast as they are turned into the Republican. Day to day they will be placed in their alphabetical position as long as the campaign lasts.

APPENDICITIS IS FATAL

Augusta Ziegler Dies Here Following Operation.

Augusta Ziegler, 35 years old, of near Clarksburg, died yesterday afternoon at the Sexton sanatorium following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Ziegler was operated on shortly after being removed to the sanatorium, but little hope was expressed for his recovery. He was taken ill Sunday and was brought here Tuesday evening. The remains were taken to his home this morning where the funeral services will be held. He had lived on the Marshall Newhouse farm, near Clarksburg for some time and was well known. He is survived by his widow and one child, five months old.

TAX MEETING TO BE AT RICHMOND

Taxing Officials of Rush County Will Attend Session to Discuss 1914
Methods Feb. 17.

BOARD TO BE REPRESENTED

The state board of tax commissioners has arranged a series of meetings for groups of counties at different points in the state for February to discuss the methods and manner of taxing property in 1914. The group which includes Rush county, composed of Wayne, Franklin, Union, Fayette, Rush, Henry, Randolph and Delaware, will meet in the court house at Richmond February 17 at one o'clock in the afternoon. All taxing officials, including auditors, county, township and deputy assessors and other persons interested in the subject of taxation are invited to attend.

Other similar meetings will be held in Indianapolis February 13 and at Greensburg February 18, both at one o'clock in the afternoon. If train service is more convenient, either of these may be attended, instead of the Richmond meeting. The state board will be represented at all of these meetings.

FALSE ALARM.

The fire department was called to box 134, corner of Third and Spencer streets last night about six o'clock but it proved to be a false alarm. This was the second run of the day.

BERT ENGLISH DEAD.

The funeral services of J. Albert English, a former resident of this city, were held yesterday at the late residence in Ben Davis. Mr. English left here about five years ago. Mr. English will be remembered as a poet of considerable ability, his verses appearing in the local papers. He is survived by his widow and one son, Walter English.

REORGANIZATION STARTS FRIDAY

First Precinct Meeting Will Be Held
to Elect Committeemen and Convention Delegates

P. J. LYNCH MAY BE CHAIRMAN

Probable Choice of County Committee for Chairman is not Mentioned Yet.

The reorganization of the Republican party in Indiana will start "from the ground up" Friday. Then the first precinct meetings will be held in Rush county, as well as in other counties in the state, to elect committeemen and delegates whose respective duties it shall be to elect county and district chairmen.

Notice has been given elsewhere in the Republican for several days of the precinct meetings. Only a few will be held Friday, and the others will take place Saturday. An unusually large attendance is anticipated because a renewed interest is being shown in party affairs.

The delegates who are elected by the counties will meet at Cambridge City next Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock and select a district chairman. P. J. Lynch, of Newcastle, an active and energetic business man, will in all probability be the choice of the convention, as he is the only candidate who has been mentioned. Mr. Lynch has been attending to the duties of the Sixth district chairman, Linus P. Meredith, who retired.

The new committeemen, who will be elected by the townships, will meet Monday in the court house and reorganize the county central committee by electing a chairman, secretary and other officers.

Rush county is entitled to fourteen delegates to the district convention. Each township will elect one delegate, with the exception of Rushville township, which will elect three delegates.

Mayor C. L. Bebout is the present county chairman, but it is not known who his successor is likely to be. No names have been mentioned prominently in this connection.

VERY QUIET IN COURT

It was quiet in court today, there being no cases set for trial. Judge Megee expected the damage suit, which started Tuesday and which was compromised yesterday to continue today and as a result the calendar was vacant. The petition of the Allen and Nipp Realty company to change its name was granted. The firm is now known as the Robbins-Nipp company.

Lurline council No. 296 will have degree work in the Red Men's hall tonight. A full attendance is desired because business of importance will be transacted.

DEGREE WORK MARKS CLOSE

District Meeting of Odd Fellows
Ends With Inspection and Initiation of Class.

MANY ATTEND PUBLIC MEET

Grand Lodge Officers of All Branches Present and Addresses Are Given—Visitors Present.

The district meeting of the Odd Fellows lodge closed last night with the exemplification of the first degree by the degree staff of Indianapolis lodge No. 465 and the inspection of the Rebekah lodge by the president of the State Assembly, Mrs. Ida VanDorin of Indianapolis. The officers of the grand lodge and other branches of the order were in Greenwood today for a district meeting.

The meeting here was a great success and never in the history of the local lodge has all the officers of the various branches been present at one time before as yesterday. Every branch of the order was represented and all the grand lodge officials were here. The public meeting last night from 7 to 9 o'clock as well attended and an interesting program was given. Talks were given by William Nauer, grand master, of Vernon; Mrs. Ida VanDorin of the Rebekah lodge; Stephen O. Sharp, grand patriarch, of Indianapolis and W. H. Leedy, grand secretary.

Visitors were present from Indianapolis, Connersville, Liberty, Greenburg and other places. The Lucas orchestra furnished the music for the public meeting. The addresses of all the visitors were well received and much favorable comment was heard regarding the meeting. Following the public gathering the degree team from Indianapolis conferred the first degree on a class of candidates.

The degree team is considered one of the best in the state and came here on a special car over the I. & C. The party numbered forty-four. The work of the Indianapolis team received much praise. At the same time that the work was being given in the Odd Fellows building, Mrs. VanDorin, state president of the Rebekah Assembly inspected the work of the local Rebekah degree team in the Modern Woodmen hall.

A large crowd was present at this meeting and the Rushville degree team received many compliments from the state president. Tomorrow a district meeting will be held in Tipton.

WOULD END THIEVING HERE

Local People Bothered by Prowler Point to Shelbyville Case.

Rushville people who have been suffering at the hands of chicken thieves noted dispatches today from Shelbyville which stated that Judge Blair had yesterday sentenced three chicken thieves, one man and two women, to one to eight years in prison. They feel that this will put an end summarily to petty thieving in the hen coups. The theft of chickens has been very common in Rushville only recently and people who have suffered believed that some decisive step will have to be taken to stop it.

In Dresden the mail authorities make special provision for the transportation of millinery and hats in boxes.

A REPUBLICAN DUTY.

Next Friday and Saturday the Republicans of Rush county will meet in their various precincts or townships for the purpose of electing members of the county central committee, also delegates and alternates to the district convention to be held at Cambridge City next Monday for the purpose of electing a chairman.

It is the plain duty of every Republican to attend these precinct meetings and take part in the beginning-at-the-bottom of forming the organization that is to direct the party for the next two years. Do not remain away from your precinct meeting and then complain afterward that this or that was not done or that this man and not that one should have been elected committeeman. If you are interested in the welfare of your party, attend the meeting and have a voice in its proceedings.

If you were a Roosevelt Republican in the election of 1912, you will be welcome at your precinct meeting, for it is there that you can contend for and accomplish the reforms that you stood for in 1912 and not by standing on the outside and throwing bricks.

PRESIDENT FAVORS TWO BATTLESHIPS

Tells Callers Today That he Always Follows Recommendations of Cabinet Heads.

WOULD REPEAL EXEMPTION

Washington, Feb. 5.—For the first time President Wilson made it clear today that he favored the repeal of the exemption granted American vessels in tolls in the Panama canal. He told callers he would use every effort to obtain such action through congress this session.

The President also made it clear that he stood behind Secretary Daniels of the navy in his recommendations for two battleships. He said that in matters he had always been disposed to follow the recommendations of the cabinet heads.

CHICAGO "DRYS" WILL FORCE VOTE

Leaders Announce Today That They
Will Count on Support of 153,-
000 Registered Women Voters.

75,000 SIGNATURES NEEDED

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The "dry" forces announced today that they will force a vote on the saloon question at the spring election April 7. They expect to file a petition bearing the names seventy-five thousand registered voters. They are counting on the support of 153,000 registered women voters for the "dry" cause. The announcement was a surprise. It was pointed out that if the petition was filed, Chicago will be the largest city in the world to vote directly on the liquor traffic.

SAYS HE SHOT IN SELF DEFENSE

Walter Runyan, Charged With Killing Arlie Stull, Testifies in Crawfordsville Court Today.

EXPLAINS ACTS OF STULL

Says he Believes Dead Man Thought Him Responsible for Circulating Stories About Him.

(By United Press.)

Crawfordsville, Ind., Feb. 5.—Walter Runyan, on the witness stand today in his trial for the murder of Arlie Stull, testified that he shot in self defense.

He said he believed that Stull thought him responsible for circulating a story in regard to Stull's illegitimate birth and that Stull's attack was actuated by this belief.

Speaking earnestly to the jury, Runyan denied that he had ever been criminally intimate with Roxie Hart, the pretty cousin of Mrs. Runyan.

"I never violated her chastity and our relations were never of a criminal nature," said Runyan.

Runyan told how Stull left church the Sunday night before his death when the minister, quoting scripture, said, "He who is without hope may take his own life." Stull told Runyan later, the witness said, that he wandered about aimlessly until midnight.

It was expected that cross-examination of Runyan would begin late this afternoon.

Miss Hart concluded her direct and cross-examination last night. Prosecutor Ira Clouser conducted a grueling examination of this witness on which the state based its hopes, but failed to show any intimate relations between her and Runyan.

The prosecuting attorney brought out the clandestine letter writing, that they had been buggy riding and that there had been lots of hugging and kissing, but that was the end of the revelations.

Advertised Goods Are Usually of Better Quality

When a man puts an article on the market and advertises it he is giving it his personal endorsement.

He is creating a standard that he must live up to for all time if he expects to succeed.

He must fulfill all his advertising promises—and if he is a wise advertiser he will do a little bit more.

His hope of profit is the steady demand he wishes to create, and this can only come to an article with real merit.

The great advertising agencies which are expert in planning big campaigns frequently advise would-be advertisers to wait for months or years until they bring their product to a point where it is ready for exploitation.

All things being equal it is a safe rule to choose an advertised brand rather than one that has no particular sponsor.

It will generally assure you more satisfaction for your money.

It's what you get for what you pay, that counts.

WHAT COUNTS IN FARMING

United States Department of Agriculture Says Education and Business Methods are Important.

VALUE OF COMMON TRAINING

Under Average Conditions, Farm is No Place for Men Weak or Unable to Direct Work.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Farmers with a high-school education make nearly double the average income of those with merely a common school education, and those who start earliest make the most profits, according to the Department of Agriculture investigators. The Department's Office of Farm Management has been conducting a series of investigations in the corn-belt, which have brought out many details that should be of practical value to all agriculturists. These results have just been published in a new bulletin.

Under average conditions the farm according to this bulletin, is no place for the weak or for those unable to direct work. The man who intends to spend his working life in the country should start early, for success is not gained in a moment but by many years of persistent effort. It is true that some farmers have made small fortunes in a short time, but this is usually through a phenomenal rise in land values. Few men have become rich from the real profits of the land. Through skill in management and by hard labor a comfortable living and moderate profits may be expected. Those persons who are turning to the farm with the idea of reaping large incomes are doomed to severe disappointment.

Those making the poorest incomes were 28 years of age when they started farming and were past 30 when they became owners. On the average the oldest men are making the least profits.

Many farmers with very little schooling succeed, but these same men would do better if they had the opportunity of further training. No one ever hears a farmer regret that he spent a part of his early life in school.

Farming is a business the same as any other industry, and until our schools teach some of the fundamental principles governing profitable farming, the farm boy is likely to seek work elsewhere. Considering that the farm boys of today will be the farmers of tomorrow, too little attention is given to their training.

Many boys leave the farm because they see no future in it. Another important reason is the lack of profitable work at home. A moderate-sized farm is necessary to give employment to the farmer and his sons. The small farm does not provide work; hence, the boys must find employment elsewhere. Let them fully understand how farm profits and losses are made and there will be an incentive to remain. First make our farms profitable, and the question of keeping the boys there will solve itself.

Successful farming is an individual, economic problem. The farm is a combination of enterprises, and their individual organization will determine, in a large measure, its profitability. Sufficient area and a proper organization of well-selected farm enterprises to permit the maximum use of men, horses and machinery, are the essential characteristics of the most successful farms.

No one expects a small grocery store which has only a few customers a day to be a great financial success. The total amount of business is insufficient to earn the operator a substantial income. Exactly the same is true with the small farm. The volume of business is limited by the area in crops and the capital invested. The small farm furnishes a home as well as much of the produce small area would hardly be able to live.

Wages are a reward for labor, and if a farm does not provide work the pay must be correspondingly small. The family-size farm, which in the corn belt should be above 100 acres, is unquestionably a more efficient unit than an area of 40 acres or less. Crops can be grown cheaper, labor will be better paid, and the farmer and his family will enjoy more of the benefits of modern civilization.

The farmer may have sufficient area and grow the right kind of crops yet not be successful, owing the poor quality of his entire business. Poor crops that do not pay the cost of production, and the feeding of these to unproductive live stock, are common causes of failure. This characteristic of unsuccessful farming attracts much public attention. Such farms are unprofitable largely through ignorance or indifference on the part of the operator. Under good management they can generally be made successful.

Diversity of the farm business. Improper organization of a large farm limits its possibilities, just as area limits the small farm. Single crops of single live-stock enterprises seldom utilize farm labor of its maximum. By having several crops there is not only better distribution of labor, but the chances of total loss from crop failures are lessened. Fortunately, corn, oats, and wheat utilize the farmer's time pretty thoroughly through the growing season. In some parts of this country certain crops that need labor only a part of the year may be so profitable that the farmer can afford to be idle the rest of the year. However, these are the exceptions. Most crops are not profitable enough to permit any such practice. Idle horses and machinery are nearly as expensive as idle men. If the working equipment can all be kept busy on paying enterprises, success is almost assured.

Equally important in the selection of enterprises to permit the maximum use of labor is the consideration of the profitability of each. Dairy cows and cash crops may utilize all of the farmer's time but in certain regions, possibly, dairy cattle under management could hardly be made to pay a profit. Markets and other conditions have to be carefully considered in choosing the enterprises which are to constitute the main sources of income. Fitting the right crop to the soil and selling it to the proper market or feeding it to the right kind of live stock are important factors. Following such types of farming as are unsuited to the region is often a cause of unprofitable agriculture in some of the older settled States.

The wide fluctuation in prices of certain crops makes it extremely difficult for a farmer to choose a definite rotation. One year they will be such as to give handsome profits on certain crops, and the next year they may be insufficient to pay the cost of production. The question confronting the average farmer is not so much one of production as it is of marketing. Most farmers are able to grow a sufficient quality of crops to give them a very comfortable living if they are assured of reasonable prices for their products. However, under present conditions the farmer has to take big chances with nearly all of his crops. If he is so unfortunate as to have a combination of crops every one of which is low in price in some particular year, severe losses will be the result. Potatoes, apples, peaches, onions, and cabbage are good illustrations of the crops that fluctuate widely in price from year to year.

The essential characteristics of the more successful farms are a sufficient area and a proper organization of well-selected farm enterprises to permit the maximum use of men, horses, and machinery.

The bulletin just issued gives in detail the results of the thorough study that the Department's specialists have made of farming as a business in the corn-belt, and can be had free upon application to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Bulletin 41, entitled "A Farm-Management Survey of Three Representative Areas in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa."

UNCLE SAM IS NOT WORRIED

Peruvian Revolution Does Not Disturb Washington Because Interference is Not Probable.

THE CONTRARY IS EXPECTED

Believed United States Will Recognize New Government if There is Any Semblance of Order.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The state department has received confirmation of the coup d'etat in Lima, Peru, by which President Billinghurst of that country was deposed and his secretary of war killed. Minister McMillan sent only a brief report, promising details of the revolution later.

The coup d'etat was wholly unexpected in Washington. Though it was well known that the political situation was disturbed, there was no expectation that matters would take such a violent course. Secretary Bryan said he had not taken action in the matter, and indicated that there will be none for some time. It is believed the administration will recognize the revolutionary government if there is a semblance of constitutional procedure in its organization. Confirmation of the results of the coup d'etat by the national legislature undoubtedly would be accepted by the Wilson administration and recognition of the government granted. President Billinghurst had been in a conflict with the Peruvian congress almost constantly since his election to the presidency by that body a little less than a year ago. The popular election was declared without result, and after a long delay Billinghurst was finally chosen by the congress. It was reported at the time that intimidation was resorted to in order to secure his election.

Last fall the congress refused to pass the budget presented by the government, and also failed to approve the government's recognition for the authorization of a $33,000,000 loan. President Billinghurst was obliged to continue the budget of the previous year.

President Billinghurst was known as a reform president. He brought on himself the antagonism of congress, however, by his efforts in the direction of economies and stoppage of waste of public funds. At the same time, however, he conducted affairs in a very high-handed manner and his political opponents were made to feel his hand against them. Former President Leguia was forced last summer to flee the country, and it is believed he may have had some connection with the latest coup d'etat.

START FIGHT ON OIL KING.

(By United Press.)

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 5.—The county tax commissioners, Fackler and Agnew, who are fighting to collect twelve million dollars in personal taxes from John D. Rockefeller, consulted with Governor Cox today and later announced all the powers of the state and taxing commissioners would be utilized against the oil king.

LODGE BUILDING BURNS

Scottsburg Suffers Loss of $35,000 From Fire.

(By United Press.)

Scottsburg, Ind., Feb. 5.—The Odd Fellows building was gutted by fire today, causing a loss of $35,000. Poor fire fighting facilities tied the hands of the fighters. The origin is unknown. Four inches of snow covering the city prevented sparks from doing damage. The fire was first seen at 2:30 a. m.

HUGE FACTORY IS PROPOSED

Development of Army Supply Depot at Jeffersonville Promised.

Washington, Feb. 5.—A mammoth government manufacturing establishment is likely to be established at Jeffersonville in the near future. Representative Cox had a long and satisfactory talk with Quartermaster General Aleshire in regard to the development of the Jeffersonville supply depot. It is tentatively planned to begin the manufacture there of all sorts of wagons, ambulances and other vehicles needed in army transportation, as well as all sorts of leather goods required by the army. "I have my eye on the Jeffersonville depot, and you may expect it to grow rapidly in importance," said General Aleshire to Cox.

The Prussian government has decided on an additional issue of $50,000,000 in 4 per cent treasury notes.

SLUGGER TELLS A SENSATIONAL TALE

"Bat" Masterson Testifies Before Public Service Commission Concerning His Wrongdoing.

IS A FORGER AND PERJURER

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—Going back on his former employers President Robert I. Todd and Superintendent T. F. Grover of the T. H. I. & E. Traction company, "Bat" Masterson, famous slugger during the recent street car strike, told a sensational story of his strike breaking work to the public service commission here today. That he robbed, slugged, forged and perjured were admissions Masterson made.

Testifying to his activity in the recent street car trouble at Terre Haute, the witness swore Todd sent him to Grover, who helped him obtain a list of union carmen in Terre Haute. From this, Masterson said, he forged the name of J. C. Colgan, a union leader, to a letter of introduction to a conductor named Hobbs who had the list.

Masterson said he also turned over to Grover papers stolen from Colgan's room in the Budder hotel. Grover ordered Masterson to swear falsely against union conductors regarding their "knocking down fares in order that union men might be discharged, Masterson swore.

GET NEW IDEAS ON ROAD BUILDING

Cameron and Herkless Inspect Rock Asphalt Material Near Bowling Green, Kentucky.

ARE ON TOUR THROUGH SOUTH

The following from the Bowling Green, (Ky.) Messenger will be of interest here: A. Cameron, of Rushville, Ind., road engineer and county surveyor of Rush county, Ind., and A. R. Herkless, ex-county road engineer of Rush county, were in the city yesterday, on an automobile tour through the south to ascertain the qualities of the various road building materials at different places. Both officials were highly pleased with the rock asphalt which is found near this city, and expressed a desire to put it in use on the Rush county roads.

Messrs. Cameron and Herkless left Bowling Green for New Orleans where they will make other investigations. Their tour will include points in Texas and other southwestern states.

ENDS SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

The Rev. F. B. Stearns Returns Home From Oxford, Ohio.

The Rev. F. B. Stearns has returned from Oxford, Ohio, where he held a union revival meeting, in which the U. P., the Presbyterian and M. E. congregations joined, for two weeks. The meeting was successful and there were over sixty accessions. The first Sunday night of the revival an overflow meeting of 600 was held at the M. E. church and the second Sunday night every available space in the church was taken. The Rev. Mr. Stearns, during the meeting, made an address before the student body of Oxford College for Women and Miami university. President Hughes of Miami called Mr. Stearns in for a conference of 45 minutes concerning the moral and spiritual welfare of the students.

A marriage license was granted yesterday afternoon to Clifford Horr and Ruth Woods.

Amusements

The Gem will show a sensational two reel 101 Bison for the first picture tonight. It is entitled "The War of the Cattle Range." It is a thrilling picture and the scenes are said to be very realistic. The climax comes when a hand to hand fight between the two leaders occurs. The third picture is a detective drama "The Heart of a Cracksman." The program is said to be an exceptionally good one.

The Princess will show the feature two reel picture "Wild Beasts at Large," tonight. It is said to be a great wild animal sensation and the situations are very funny. The circus prepares to unload at a town where it is to show when the animals break loose and take the town. It is said to be a scream from start to finish. The other is a Biograph drama "Ail For Science." Clara McDowell is shown in this one.

The Portola will show the usual three pictures tonight. The first is a Pathe drama "The Shadow of Shame," featuring Crane Wilbur. The second is a Vitagraph drama entitled "The Cure." Edith Story and Ned Finley are shown in this one. The last is a Pathe comedy "The Elusive Turkey." All are said to be good pictures.

IMMIGRATION BILL PASSES THE HOUSE

Much Speculation Regarding Its Future Course.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The house of representatives, by a vote of 240 to 140, passed the Burnett immigration bill, regarded as the most drastic legislation of the kind proposed in many years. The measure now goes to the senate and doubtless will be passed by that body. Whether it will be approved by President Wilson is a matter of lively speculation among both the opponents and proponents of the legislation. The Burnett bill was bitterly opposed in the house, and members who were opposed to the bill made strenuous efforts to amend it, but without avail.

The fight against the immigration bill in the house was led by Representative Goldfogle of New York, who had the assistance of practically every other member from that state. When the bill was called up for final passage Mr. Goldfogle made a motion to recommit the bill with instructions to the committee on immigration to strike from the measure certain features, among them the illiteracy test. The motion was defeated by 241 to 126.

A provision of the bill is that proposing the exclusion of militant suffragettes or other persons identified with organizations that seek to effect government reforms by violence. Strict regulations are imposed with a view to excluding persons supposed to have criminal tendencies.

Another important change made in the existing law is the penalizing of steamship companies for bringing in insane aliens and imposing fines for such offenses ranging from $100 to $200 in each case. It is proposed also to exclude stowaways and deserting alien seamen.

WARNING ISSUED TO AUTO OWNERS

Notice Given That Machines Must Bear New 1914 Licenses When Run Now.

LAW VIOLATION OTHERWISE

The notice of automobile owners has been called to the fact that the old license tags issued for the last half of 1913, are no longer good and must be replaced with the 1914 tags. The tags issued by the secretary of state for the year are blue with white numbers. The old tags were yellow with black letters.

The secretary of the state has given notice that the applications for new licenses must be made out the same as last year. Some of the applicants have written for a new license referring only to, their previous number. In such cases the autoists have been informed that they must fill out the blank before a notary public giving the complete description of their machine. It will be unlawful to run a machine on the public highways unless it bears the new number, as the old license tags expired the first of the year.

TO BE NAMED AT AUGUST SESSION

Inspectors to Oversee Registration of Voters in County to be Appointed by Commissioners.

THEY ALL WILL BE DEMOCRATS

First Time in Many Years This Party Has Been in Control of County Election Machinery.

The inspectors who will oversee the registration of voters in Rush county this year will not be appointed until the August term of the county commissioners' court. As only one registration is to be held, and it just a month before the November election, there is no need for the appointment of inspectors and other registration officers early in the year.

Under the registration act of 1911, three registrations were required—six months, sixty days and thirty days before the election. Because of this, the registration officers who served two years ago were appointed by the commissioners at the March term of their court. The registration act of 1913 did away with all the registrations except that which is to be held a month before the election.

It is assumed that the registration inspectors who will serve in Rush county this year will be Democrats. The board of commissioners is Democratic and it will be only natural for Commissioners Moore and Aiken party at every opportunity. The registration board will have two clerks as before are to be appointed by the inspector, but he is to be guided in his selections by recommendations from the county chairman of the political parties casting the highest and next highest vote, respectively, in the last preceding general election.

The law prescribes that the registration board in each precinct shall hold a session in each year in which a general election will occur. Such session shall be held, the law states, on Monday, the 29th day before such election, and shall be designated the regular session of the board.

The inspector of registration shall receive for his services in the registration and before and after the registration, the sum of $3, and in addition thereto he shall be paid a sum equal to ten cents per mile for each mile of the shortest distance between his residence and the county auditor's office. The clerks shall receive $3 each for their services. In case a registration continues two days, or more, each member of the board shall receive an additional $3 for each of such succeeding days.

It is probable that the county commissioners will appoint election inspectors about the same time they appoint registration inspectors. It is assumed, too, that the election inspectors will be Democrats. It will be the first time for many years for the Democrats to be in charge of the election machinery. As it will be a chance they have been looking for ever since the county was organized, the chances are they will not overlook a job anywhere along the line.

Dogs have been among J. P. Scott's sheep and succeeded in killing two. Some of the dogs were killed, but don't know for certain that they have got all that was connected with it. A sheep is an animal that is easy to frighten. Just as soon as a dog appears, the sheep will break up and run, and nine times out of ten the dog will take after them. Dogs are good in many ways, but when they are found to be sheep killers, the best thing to do is to kill them as they never forget it and will keep it up more or less all their life.

ACCOUNTS FOR FAKE REPORTS

Exaggeration of Killed and Wounded in Battle Directly Due to Mexicans' Laziness.

CARRY .22 CALIBRE RIFLE

He Loves to Fight, But The Mexican Dodges Marching and Carrying a Heavy Gun.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 5.—The secret is out. The public long ago began to accept as a joke published reports that hundreds were killed in Mexican battles, for the number invariably dwindled down to a score or so. But there is a reason.

The exaggeration of killed and wounded in battle is directly due to the Mexicans' laziness. The Mexican, both federal and rebel, be it known, with few exceptions, carry the smallest army rifle in the world—a .22 calibre. Some carry a 30-30. The Mexican dislikes to carry heavy guns or heavy ammunition and these light rifles are no burden. The Mexican loves to fight, but when it comes to marching and carrying a gun, that is work, and he wants to get out of as much of that as possible. There is no glory in carrying a heavy gun.

This discovery was made by William H. McGrath, representing the National Red Cross Society. He found that Mexicans who had fallen in battle suffered from very small bullet wounds and further investigation revealed the fact that they carried the lightest weapons possible. McGrath has just returned from a trip along the border and throughout North Mexico where he saw much fighting. During the day of the heaviest fighting at Nuevo Laredo when the rebels tried to capture the town, 125 "fatally" wounded soldiers who were counted as dead, were cared for by the Red Cross corps. Only four of the Mexicans died as the wounds of the majority were slight. This is about the average percentage of deaths of those cared for, asserts McGrath, which leads to the reports being sent out that a great many are killed. They are seen to fall and they are carried away on stretchers and the correspondents and even the generals are honestly deceived. So when one reads a headline: "200 Die in Mexican Battle" it may be generally taken for granted that there is one cipher too many. This has been the case in every Mexican battle in the last several years. The slaughter is not so terrible as understood. The greatest suffering, according to the Red Cross agent, is not on the battlefield but in the camps and in homes, where there is need of food, fuel and clothes. "Because small calibre guns are used," McGrath says "the war may continue for a much longer period than expected; in fact that is the reason why it already has lasted so long."

AFTER AUTOMOBILE PARTS

Thieves at St. Paul Make Two Good Hauls in Short Time.

Carl Wolfe, a St. Paul business man Tuesday discovered that several dollars worth of automobile accessories had been stolen from him, probably Monday night. His machine was robbed of two sets of tire chains, a new tire and three inner tubes. This is not the first time thieves have stolen this class of material in this vicinity. A few days ago Alfred Crisler's garage was broken into and several automobile parts of value were taken.

If the Legislature Would Pass a Law---

That every vehicle user in Rush County had to buy his vehicles where he could get the best bargain for his money and leave it to the majority of vehicle users in the county to decide, you would have to buy your next one from us or break the law. There is no question about this, as the majority has already decided we give them more value for their money than they can get elsewhere and have backed up their judgment by buying their vehicles from us. The road service you can get out of one of our buggies makes it an easy proposition for us to sell a customer the second time and also makes it easy for us to sell his neighbors and friends as our vehicle users are always satisfied and make us customers. We still have a few of those nice, roomy Storm Buggies in stock and also have a sample of our 1915 Storm Buggy that you want to see. It is the first Storm Buggy ever built that has sliding doors that can not rattle and also has several new features you want to see. Bring your vehicle business to us no matter what it is and we will take care of it.

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

By BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1913, by Burton E. Stevenson.

CHAPTER X.

Enter M. Armand.

EIGHT or ten years before the fair Julie—at least she was fairer then than now—had come to New York to enter the employ of a family whose mistress had decided that life without a French maid was unendurable. Rogers had met her, had been fascinated by her black eyes and red lips, had in the end proposed marriage, had been accepted and for some months had led an eventful existence as the husband of the siren. Then one morning he awakened to find her gone.

He had, of course, entrusted his savings to her, and the savings were gone also. Julie, it seems, had been overcome with longing for the Paris asphalt, and she had flown back to France. Rogers had thought of following; but, appalled at the difficulty of finding her in Paris, not knowing what he should do if he did find her, he had finally given it up and had settled gloomily down to live upon his memories. Some sort of affection for her had kept alive within him, and when he opened the door of Vantine's house and found her standing on the steps he was as wax in her hands.

When the story was finished Julie was quite herself again, even a little proud, I think, of holding the center of the stage in the role of siren.

"This is all true, I suppose?" asked the veiled lady.

"All quite true, madame," answered Julie, with a shrug. "I am older now and have more sense; besides, I am no longer sought after as I was."

"And so," said madame, with irony, "you are now no doubt willing to return to your husband?"

"I have been considering it, madame. One must have a harbor in one's old age."

I glanced at Rogers and was astonished to see that he was regarding the woman with affectionate admiration.

"I have hesitated," she added, "only because of madame. Where would madame get another maid such as I?"

"We will discuss it," said the veiled lady, "when we are alone. And now, perhaps, you will be so good as to tell us of your previous visit here."

"One day on the boat as I was looking down at the passengers of the third class that I perceived Georges—M. Drouet—strolling about. I was boulevard—what you call upset with amazement, and then he looked up and our eyes met, and he came beneath me and commanded that I meet him that evening. It was then that I learned his plan. It was to secure those letters for himself and to dispose of them."

"To whom?" asked Godfrey.

"To the person that would pay the greatest price for them, most certainly. They were to be offered first to madame at 10,000 francs each. Should she refuse they were then to be offered to M. le Duc—he would surely desire to possess them!"

The veiled lady shivered a little. "That night," continued Julie, "I decided that at the first moment I would hasten to this house; I would explain the matter to M. Vantine; I would persuade him to restore to me the letters with which I would fly to madame. I knew also that I could rely upon her gratitude."

"It was not until evening that I found an opportunity to leave madame. I hastened here; I rang the bell, but I confess I should have failed, I should not have secured an entrance if it had not been that it was my husband who opened the door to me. M. Vantine himself came into the hall, and I ran to him and begged that he hear me. It was then that he invited me to enter this room."

She paused again, and a little shiver of expectancy ran through me. At last we were to learn how Philip Vantine had met his death!

"I sat down," continued Julie. "I told him the story from the very beginning. He listened with much interest, but when I proposed that he should restore to me the letters he hesitated. He walked up and down the room, trying to decide, then he took me through that door into the room beyond. The cabinet was standing in the center of the floor, and all the lights were blazing."

"I went to the cabinet and pressed on the three springs, as I had seen madame do. The little handle at the side fell out, but suddenly he stopped me."

"Those letters do not belong to you," he said. "They belong to your mistress. I cannot permit that you take them away, for, after all, I do not know you. You may intend to make some bad use of them."

"He brought me back into this room. I could have cried with rage!"

"Return to your mistress," he said, "and inform her that I shall be most happy to return the letters to her. But it must be in her own hands that I place them."

"I saw that it was of no use to argue further. He was of adamant. So I left the house, he himself opening the door for me. And that is all that I know, madame."

"Of course," Godfrey suggested gently, "as soon as you reached home you related to your mistress what had occurred?"

Julie grew a little crimson.

"No, monsieur," she said, "I told her nothing. I feared that without the letters she would misunderstand my motives."

"And then, of course, without the letters, there would be no reward," Godfrey supplemented.

The veiled lady rose. Julie resumed her veil, shooting at Godfrey a glance anything but friendly. The veiled lady turned to me and held out her hand.

"I thank you, Mr. Lester, for your kindness," she said. "Come, Julie," and she moved toward the door, which Rogers hastened to open.

Mr. Hornblower nodded and passed out after them, and Godfrey and I were left alone together.

"Well," said Godfrey—"well, what a story it would make! And I can't use it. It's a bitter reflection, Lester."

"It would certainly shake the pillars of society," I agreed. "I'm rather shaken myself. I hadn't any idea this was the right cabinet. I didn't see how it could be."

"That's it exactly. How did it happen when the veiled lady went to Armand & Son in Paris that she was directed to Philip Vantine? According to his own story, he did not purchase this cabinet. He had never seen it before. It was presumably shipped him by mistake. Armand & Son cable you that it was a mistake, and yet they cite Vantine as the purchaser."

"There is no poisoned mechanism about that drawer, that's sure," I added.

"No, and never has been," Godfrey agreed.

"And that leaves us all at sea, doesn't it? But there is one thing sure. The killing, whatever its cause, was done out there in the anteroom, not in here."

"What makes you think that?"

"We believe that Drouet came here to get Vantine's permission to open this drawer and get the letters, saw the cabinet, tried to open the drawer and was killed in the attempt. But it is evident enough now that there is nothing about that drawer to hurt anyone."

"Yes, that's evident, I think," Godfrey agreed.

"If he had opened the drawer, then, he would have taken the letters, since there was nothing to prevent him. Since they were not taken it follows, doesn't it, that he was killed before he had a chance at the drawer? Perhaps he never saw the cabinet. He must have been killed out there in the anteroom a few minutes after Parks left."

"And how about Vantine?" Godfrey asked.

"If he had opened the drawer," I pointed out, "and been killed in the act of opening it, it would have been found open. I had thought that perhaps it closed of itself, but you see that it does not. You have to push it shut and then snap the handle up into place."

"That's true," Godfrey assented. "Neither of them opened the drawer. But there is an alternative. The hand that killed Drouet and Vantine may also have closed the drawer."

"And left the letters in it?" I questioned. "Surely not!"

He glanced at the shuttered window. "Besides," I protested, "how would he get in? How would he get away? What was he after if he left the letters behind?" Then I rose wearily. "I must be getting back to the office," I said. "This is Saturday, and we close at 2. Are you coming?"

"No," he answered. "If you don't mind I'll sit here awhile longer and think things over, Lester. Perhaps I'll blunder on to the truth yet!"

I got back to the office to find that M. Felix Armand of Armand & Son had called and, finding me out, had left his card, with the penciled memorandum that he would call again Monday morning.

Vantine's will was probated next morning. He directed that his collection of art objects be removed to the museum and that the house and such portion of its contents as the museum did not care for be sold for the museum's benefit. I was requested to remain in charge of things for a week or two until arrangements for the removal could be made.

I acquiesced in all these arrangements, but I was feeling decidedly blue when I found myself back in the office.

"Gentleman to see you, sir," said the office boy as I sat down at my desk, and a moment later M. Felix Armand was shown in to me. Ruddy faced, bright eyed, with dark, full beard and waving hair almost jet black, he gave the impression of tremendous strength and virility. There was about him, too, an air of culture not to be mistaken. I was both impressed and charmed by him.

"I speak English very badly, sir," he said as he sat down. "If you speak French?"

"Not half so well as you speak English," I laughed. "I can tell that from your first sentence."

"In that event I will do the best that I can," he said, smiling, "and you must pardon my blunders. First, Mr. Lester, on behalf of Armand & Son, I must ask your pardon for this mistake, so inexcusable. We cannot find for it an explanation. The cabinet which was purchased by Mr. Vantine remained in our warehouse, and this other one was boxed and shipped to him. We are investigating most rigidly."

"Then Mr. Vantine's cabinet is still in Paris?"

"No, Mr. Lester; the error was discovered some days ago, and the cabinet belonging to Mr. Vantine was shipped to me here. It should arrive next Wednesday on La Provence. I shall myself receive it and deliver it to Mr. Vantine."

"Mr. Vantine is dead," I said. "You did not know?"

He sat staring at me for a moment. "Did I understand that you said Mr. Vantine is dead?" he stammered.

I told him briefly as much as I knew of the tragedy.

"It is curious you saw nothing of it in the papers," I added. "They were full of it."

"I have been visiting friends at Quebec," he explained. "It was there that the message from our house found me commanding me to hasten here. A blunder of this sort we feel as a disgrace. I have met Mr. Vantine many times. He was a real connoisseur. We have lost one of our most valued patrons. You say that he was found dead in a room at his house?"

"Yes, and death resulted from a small wound on the hand, into which some very powerful poison had been injected."

"That is most curious. In what manner was such a wound made?"

"That we don't know. I had a theory."

"Yes?" he questioned, his eyes gleaming with interest.

"A few hours previously another man had been found in the same room, killed in the same way."

"Another man?"

"A stranger who had called to see Mr. Vantine. My theory was that both this stranger and Mr. Vantine had been killed while trying to open a secret drawer in the Boule cabinet. Do you know anything of the history of that cabinet, M. Armand?"

"We believe it to have been made for Mme. de Montespan by M. Boule himself," he answered. "It is the original of one now in the Louvre which is known to have belonged to the Grand Louis."

"It was Mr. Vantine's correct guess at the history of the cabinet," I explained, "which gave me the basis for my theory. A cabinet belonging to Mme. de Montespan would, of course, have a secret drawer. What more natural than that it should be guarded by a poisoned mechanism?"

"What more natural, indeed! It is good reasoning, Mr. Lester," he agreed eagerly, his eyes burning like two coals of fire, so intense was his interest. "I have been from boyhood a lover of tales of mystery. I am fascinated."

"Perhaps you can assist us," I suggested, "for that theory of mine has been completely disproved."

"Disproved? In what way?" he demanded.

"The secret drawer has been found."

"How?" he cried, his voice sharp with surprise. "Found? The secret drawer has been found?"

"Yes, and there was no poisoned mechanism guarding it."

He breathed deeply for an instant; then he pulled himself together with a little laugh.

"Really," he said, "I must not indulge myself in this way. Was the drawer empty?"

"No; there was a packet of letters in it."

"Delicious! Love letters, of a certainty! From the Grand Louis to the Montespan, perhaps?"

"Since the letters have been returned," he said at last, a little dryly, "it is useless to discuss the matter. Has not other explanation been found for the death of Mr. Vantine and of this stranger? You do not even know who he was?"

"Oh, yes, we have discovered that. He was a worthless fellow named Drouet, living in an attic in the Rue de la Huchette, in Paris."

M. Armand had been gazing at me intently, but now his look relaxed, and I fancied that he drew a deep breath as a man might do when relieved of a burden.

"You did not, by any chance, know him?" I asked carelessly.

"No, I think not. But I do not understand what this Drouet, as you call him, was doing in the house of Mr. Vantine."

"He was trying to get possession of the letters," I said. "What none of us understands, M. Armand, is how he was killed. Who or what killed him. How was that poison administered. Can you suggest an explanation?"

"It is a nice problem," he said. "A most interesting one. I will think it over. Mr. Lester, I shall see you again Wednesday. If it is agreeable to you we can meet at the house of Mr. Vantine and exchange the cabinets."

"At what time?"

"I do not know with exactness. There may be some delay in getting the cabinet from the ship. Perhaps it would be better if I called for you?"

"Very well," I assented. To be continued.

How to SELL Things That Are "FOR SALE"

Write your "For Sale" ad SIMPLY stating ever detail about the article that you would want an ad to give if you were anxious to buy something of the kind yourself. Give a little thought to the "selling points" about the article, and put THEM into your ad. Then run the ad MORE THAN ONCE, if that is necessary. It may or may not be.

Want Ad Department

Advertisements under this head are charged for at the rate of one-third cent per word for each insertion. The same ad will be placed in the Indianapolis Star and Daily Republican at the combined rate of one cent per word. Found articles of small value will be advertised free of charge.

SAYS THERE IS NEWS MONOPOLY

N. Y. Sun Throws Down Gauntlet to Associated Press in Complaint Made to Atty General

DEMANDS AN INVESTIGATION

Declares That Powerful Organization Be Compelled to Obey Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Washington, Feb. 5.—In a complaint submitted to the department of justice, the New York Sun has thrown down the gauntlet to the Associated Press, and thrown it down fairly hard. Officially and legally it is the complaint of the Sun Printing and Publishing association, setting forth that the Associated Press is a monopoly and praying the attorney general to institute proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust law to stop such a monopoly.

The complaint was filed with Attorney General McReynolds, and after the filing it was said at the department of justice that the attorney general would give the matter consideration with a view to determining whether he would order an investigation into the facts alleged by the Sun. If the attorney general feels that the charges made in the complaint indicate a violation of the Sherman law, he probably will turn the matter over to Assistant Attorney General Todd, who attends to most of the administration anti-trust cases, for investigation. Or if he deems the showing on the complaint alone sufficiently strong he may order that proceedings be taken under the Sherman law.

The complaint argues that the collection of news, its reduction to literary form and distribution to newspapers is a recognized commercial business, and that such sale of news and its transmission from state to state is interstate commerce in the meaning of the federal constitution and in the scope of the Sherman anti-trust law. The complaint lays great stress upon the supreme importance to the American people of a free transmission of news.

It is pointed out that the Associated Press, leasing over 35,000 miles of telegraph wires in all the states, operating them daily by its own employees and sending over them often as many as 60,000 words (over forty columns) a day, is really operating a telegraph company.

Then follows a brief history of the Associated Press and other news agencies, designed to show that the Associated Press has unlawfully monopolized the collection and distribution of world news, and still is doing so.

The Sun names fifteen specific instances in which it charges that the Associated Press has tried to boycott it and injure its business. These instances began in 1894 and are spread over nineteen years.

The concluding argument is placed upon the broad ground of prejudice to the public interest and welfare inherent in such a monopoly as is charged.

LOSES SEAT BY ONE VOTE

Senate Declines to Receive Frank Glass Into Its Midst.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Frank P. Glass, publisher of the Birmingham News, who was appointed by Governor O'Neil of Alabama, as senator ad interim to succeed the late Joseph F. Johnston, came within one vote of securing the seat. After two days of stirring debate the resolution declaring Mr. Glass entitled to the seat was lost by a vote of 31 to 32.

The issue in the case of Mr. Glass was as to the authority of Governor O'Neal of Alabama to make an appointment pending an election by the people of that state of a senator. Governor O'Neal took the ground that the constitutional amendment for direct election of senators could not affect the term of any senator chosen before the constitutional amendment was ratified. He held that the "term" was the full six-year term for which Senator Johnston had been elected. He refused to call an election to fill the vacancy.

New York, Feb. 5.—Joseph Cassidy, former Democratic boss of Queens county, and William Willett, a former member of congress, were sentenced to serve not more than a year nor less than six months in Sing Sing prison and to pay $1,000 fine. Louis T. Walter, a politician, was sentenced to three months and was fined $1,000. Willett was convicted of paying a bribe to Cassidy for a supreme court nomination. Walter was the go-between.

IN AN ATTITUDE OF "WATCHFUL WAITING"

Uncle Sam Takes No Further Action in Mexico.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The administration, following its action in raising the embargo on the shipment of arms to Mexico from the United States, promptly reverted to its policy of "watchful waiting." It was indicated at the state department that there is no further step in contemplation, and that this government will sit back and wait for the Constitutionalists to do the work of ridding the country of Huerta and his government.

Apprehension that the announcement of the raising of the embargo would result in disorders in Mexico City and attacks on Americans, were largely dispelled with the receipt of unofficial reports that the situation remained quiet in the Mexican capital. Huerta is reported to have told Charge O'Shaughnessy that he would not ask him to leave the country and that he would take no action in retaliation against the United States government. This assurance was regarded as conclusive and little if any fear is now entertained of disorders in Mexico City as a result of the president's action. Mr. O'Shaughnessy has reported that the city is quiet and that no disorders are feared.

Secretary Garrison said that so far as his department was concerned the president's order would not affect the present disposition of troops along the border. In the meantime Villa's agents are placing rush orders for large shipments of arms and ammunition at El Paso and New Orleans.

ESCAPED PRISON PENALTY

Sentences Suspended in the Case of the Littauer Brothers.

New York, Feb. 5.—Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in the United States district court, sentenced ex-Congressman Lucius N. Littauer and his brother, William Littauer, to prison terms of six months each, as well as fining them $1,000 apiece. The judge announced, however, that the brothers, who had pleaded guilty to smuggling a diamond tiara into the country, would be released on suspended sentence for the period of five years.

Judge Thomas made it clear that he was allowing the Littauers to go free on the consideration that their plea of guilty had saved the government the expense of trial; that they made full restitution of their civil liability by paying $14,000 to the government, and that Lucius Littauer is a sick man.

INDIANA MAN ESCAPES KNIFE USING MAYR'S STOMACH REMEDY

Charles Inman Able to go to Work After Operation Was Advised.

Charles Inman, 424 East Chesnut Street, Hartford City, Ind., was desperately ill. He was advised to go to Fort Wayne for an operation.

Then he took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and in a short time was able to go back to work. In a letter he said:

"My disease started seven years ago. I had to give up and go to bed. Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on, and that it would cost $150 or $200. My daughter saw your advertisement and I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but one-half day since from sickness. It surely saved my life."

Similar stories of health restored are told in letters from people all over the United States. Mayr's

Wonderful Stomach Remedy is known everywhere. The first dose proves—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucus accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operation and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to Frank E. Wolcott's drug store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting street, Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful effects.

DISAPPEARANCE MYSTERY

Former Clarksburg School Teacher Causes A Sensation.

People in the vicinity of Clarksburg and southern Rush county who remember George Gallup when he was connected with the Clarksburg schools, will be surprised to learn that he has disappeared mysteriously from Denver, Colo., where he was vicar of the St. John's cathedral. Dean H. Martin Hart, according to dispatches would not comment on the case other than the vicar, "like many other people, did unworthily, and took himself off, where, I do not know. He certainly was demoralized and wholly unnerved."

Elder C. W. Radcliff of Connersville will preach at the Primitive Baptist church Friday evening at seven-thirty o'clock.

EUREKAS WERE EASY WINNERS

Milroy Team Had Little Difficulty in Defeating Gray Specials of Acton, 32 to 12

MOSCOW WINS CLOSE ONE

Milroy, Feb. 5.—In a slow and uninteresting game of basketball here last night the Eureka Independent team defeated the Gray Specials of Acton by the score of 32 to 12. The game was exceedingly slow, neither team playing up to their usual form. The feature of the game was the goal shooting of Morris, center for Milroy. He made seven field goals and threw six foul goals out of nine free throws. Harcourt of Milroy threw five goals.

Acton made only four goals, and were never dangerous at any time. The curtain raiser was played by the Moscow and the Second Eureka teams and resulted in a victory for Moscow by the score of 24 to 23, being much more interesting of the two games. The Eureka play the Manilla Independents next Wednesday night and a hard game is expected. Milroy has one victory over Manilla and expect to win again.

FAMILY QUARREL ENDS IN TRAGEDY

John E. Dimmitt, a Young Farmer, Shoots Brother-in-Law, Dr. Williams, Near Boonville.

HE MISTREATED HIS WIFE

Midwinter Meeting of State Democratic Editorial Association Opens this Afternoon.

Boonville, Ind., Feb. 5.—Dr. Quincy L. Williams, a physician of Folsomville, Warrick county, is lying at the point of death at his home from gunshot wounds inflicted by his brother-in-law, John Ernst Dimmitt, twenty-five years old, a young farmer.

Dimmitt, who gave himself up immediately after the shooting, and who was almost immediately released on bond, says that the shooting was in self-defense and in protection of his sister, Williams's wife.

The shooting occurred at Dimmitt's home, where Mrs. Williams was staying and to which the victim had gone in an endeavor to see her. Ill treatment of his wife by Dr. Williams is alleged to have caused her to leave their home about a week ago. She went to the home of her relatives and said she would not again live with her husband.

Dr. Williams is said to have armed himself and started for the Dimmitt place to get her. Young Dimmitt met him at the door and the doctor ordered him not to move.

Dimmitt saw that Williams was armed, and, picking up a double-barreled shotgun which was lying near, emptied both barrels. One load took effect in the doctor's arm and the other in his breast. The latter wound, it is said, will result fatally.

Dr. Williams is alleged to have been practicing a system of cruelty on his wife for a number of years. At the last regular term of the circuit court he was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill his wife, and was fined $250 and costs.

At that trial there was evidence that he had beaten her into insensibility on a number of occasions, and when she was on the stand she showed a number of bruises which she said he had inflicted.

Evidence was also adduced at that trial that he had on occasions threatened her life, and then when she filed a suit for divorce he told her he would soon get her out of the way. Soon after he was fined there seemed to be a reconciliation and the suit for divorce was withdrawn. Now, Mrs. Williams says that she withdrew the suit because of threats made by her husband.

After the suit was withdrawn she says her husband knocked her down and assaulted her in various brutal forms. A few days ago he whipped her and then caused her to kneel in front of a grate fire and watch him burn the only photograph she possessed of her deceased mother. This treatment caused her to leave her home and seek refuge at the home of her relatives.

LIQUOR DUMPED IN RIVER

Last Chapter in "Blind Tiger" Seizure at Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 5.—The final chapter in the long contest over the "blind tiger" seizure of liquors at the Fort Wayne fair ground in September, 1911, was written when A. C. Gladieux, sheriff, destroyed several wagon loads of beer and other intoxicating liquors confiscated on that occasion. The liquor had been in storage in this city in the long succession of legal steps in the noted case, ending in the affirmation of the lower court's order to destroy the liquor. It was hauled to the city dump and deposited with a crash that smashed the bottles and allowed their contents to trickle into the river.

Editors Meet at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—The midwinter meeting of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association opened this afternoon, when the members and their wives and daughters held an informal reception in the parlors of a local hotel. At 7:30 o'clock a banquet will be served. Senator B. F. Shively will be the chief speaker at the banquet. Tomorrow morning the annual business session of the association will be held.

DIDN'T GET TO MAKE SPEECH

Butch McDevitt Cruelly Disappointed on Washington Visit.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Butch McDevitt, "millionaire for a day," from Wilkesbarre, who made a triumphal entry to the capital behind a band, with a statue of himself which he proposed to put in Statuary hall at the capitol, was doomed to disappointment. Speaker Clark refused Butch's request for permission to make a speech from the steps of the capitol.

"President Wilson is jealous of me and wants to get me out of town," mourned Butch.

MOTION PICTURES WILL BE DISCUSSED

Local Phases of Situation Will Be Taken up at Meeting of Parent-Teachers Association.

THE GOOD AND BAD EFFECTS

The Parent-teachers association of the Graham high school building will discuss motion pictures at the regular meeting which will be held in the Graham building tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. Members of the other parent-teachers associations of the city have been invited, because of the wide importance to parents of the subject.

There will be a paper on the topic, in which local phases will be touched on, and then both the good and bad effects of motion pictures will be taken up in the discussions. The owners of the Rushville shows have been invited to attend and take part in the meeting.

The Parent-teachers association has already discussed with local motion picture show owners the feasibility of having a special program for children every Saturday used to make the innovation profitable if the shows here would try it. There are very few pictures of special interest to children made now.

HUERTA THINKS STUFF THAT REBELS WILL WIN IS BOSH

"Absurd," he Says When American Embassy Offers Him Protection If Mexico City Falls.

Mexico City, Feb. 5.—"Absurd," is the way General Huerta today characterized the United States embassy's offer of refuge in event the Rebels take Mexico City. He told the United States officials the Federal army is on the eve of a great victory and that the revolution would soon end.

"The question of my taking refuge in the American embassy is foolish," said Huerta. "Protection for me and my officers will not be needed."

PREPARES FOR TORREON

General Villa Will Lead Troops Against City Sunday.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 5.—General Villa, leader of the Mexican Rebels, will return to Juarez this afternoon to make minor arrangements for the decisive battle at Turreon. He will start Sunday for Turreon to lead his troops against the Federal garrison there. The engagement will probably begin Tuesday. The city has only five thousand Federal soldiers guarding it. Rebel agents reported a plentiful shipment of arms across the border.

Startling Exclusive Improvements Mark the 1914 Harley-Davidson

Step-Starter—Selective Two-Speed—Double Brake Control—Double Control of Free Wheel—Folding Foot Boards—Ful-Floteing Seat, and Other Improvements.

Step-Starter Starts Machine With Rider in the Saddle and Both Wheels on the Ground

THE 1914 Harley-Davidson is marked for the innovations it presents. Innovations, but not experiments, for every feature has stood the test of months and months of hard road service. The Step-Starter—an exclusive feature—furnishes the only practical method of starting a motorcycle. If the rider accidentally stalls the motor it is no longer necessary to hold up traffic on a crowded street, find a level place in the road, get off in the mud, and set the machine on the stand to start it. A downward push on either pedal and the motor again begins to throb.

Selective Type of Two-Speed

The Harley-Davidson selective type of two-speed has proven itself to be exceptionally reliable, extremely simple and wonderfully efficient. Its housing is inside the rear hub, thus avoiding dust, dirt or damage. Its speeds are selective and the rider can shift from low to high or high to low or to neutral at any time whether the machine is standing still or in motion.

Double Brake Control

The new Harley-Davidson Band Brake may be operated by a foot lever on the right foot board or by back pedaling on either pedal.

Double Control of Free Wheel

Free Wheel Control is operated by hand or foot. With his hands on the handle-bars the rider has complete control of the 1914 Harley-Davidson.

Folding Foot Boards

The Harley-Davidson foot boards are unusually long permitting a great variety of positions according to the height of the rider. This overcomes the great objection to the ordinary type of foot boards built only to fit the ordinary man. With the Harley-Davidson foot boards whether the rider is tall or short he is not forced to assume an uncomfortable position.

Ful-Floteing Seat

For the third successive year the Ful-Floteing Seat is standard. This patented device floats the weight of the rider between two concealed springs, assimilating all jars and vibrations due to rough roads.

Other Refinements

Over thirty desirable improvements are noticeable on the new Harley-Davidson.

CANVASSERS ARE BUSY AT IT TODAY

Many More Work For New Members
in Chamber of Commerce Than Any Day of Campaign.

LARGEST CROWD AT LUNCH

20 New Members Are Added Today
and Indications Are That Number Will be Larger Tomorrow.

Twenty more new names are chalked up on the Chamber of Commerce score board today and still the good work goes on. Four or five teams of canvassers were at work this afternoon and the prospects for the largest addition since the campaign began are in store for tomorrow.

That the enthusiasm in the project is increasing daily is indicated by the attendance at the noon lunch-cons. The largest crowd which has ever been present lined up around the table at the Scanlan house today. There were sixteen present and every man is going out to bring another back with him tomorrow and there is a strong likelihood that the crowd will be doubled.

This seems to be the solution of the problem of obtaining workers.
When the men come to the lunch,
they become enthused and willingly go out and devote an hour or two to the canvass. This is the reason why so many teams were at work this afternoon. The workers were at the lunch and they were filled with the enthusiasm of others, if they had none before they came.

It does not follow necessarily that when a person attends the luncheon, he or she is compelled to make a canvass as a member of a team by sheer force. Those who attend have the opportunity of helping, and if they feel they can not spare the time, that settles the question.

The very fact that the best results have been ordered in the last few days indicates that the Chamber of Commerce is assured because the interest in the proposition is increasing and every new member means another booster. The more boosters there are, the sooner will the whole city be canvassed and the organization can be started under way.

The names of the new members are added to the list on page 4 just as fast as they are turned into the Republican. Day to day they will be placed in their alphabetical position as long as the campaign lasts.

APPENDICITIS IS FATAL

Augusta Ziegler Dies Here Following Operation.

Augusta Ziegler, 35 years old, of near Clarksburg, died yesterday afternoon at the Sexton sanatorium following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Ziegler was operated on shortly after being removed to the sanatorium, but little hope was expressed for his recovery. He was taken ill Sunday and was brought here Tuesday evening. The remains were taken to his home this morning where the funeral services will be held. He had lived on the Marshall Newhouse farm, near Clarksburg for some time and was well known.
He is survived by his widow and one child, five months old.

TAX MEETING TO BE AT RICHMOND

Taxing Officials of Rush County Will Attend Session to Discuss 1914
Methods Feb. 17.

BOARD TO BE REPRESENTED

The state board of tax commissioners has arranged a series of meetings for groups of counties at different points in the state for February to discuss the methods and manner of taxing property in 1914.
The group which includes Rush county, composed of Wayne, Franklin, Union, Fayette, Rush, Henry, Randolph and Delaware, will meet in the court house at Richmond February 17 at one o'clock in the afternoon. All taxing officials, including auditors, county, township and deputy assessors and other persons interested in the subject of taxation are invited to attend.

Other similar meetings will be held in Indianapolis February 13 and at Greensburg February 18, both at one o'clock in the afternoon. If train service is more convenient, either of these may be attended, instead of the Richmond meeting. The state board will be represented at all of these meetings.

FALSE ALARM.

The fire department was called to box 134, corner of Third and Spencer streets last night about six o'clock but it proved to be a false alarm. This was the second run of the day.

BERT ENGLISH DEAD.

The funeral services of J. Albert English, a former resident of this city, were held yesterday at the late residence in Ben Davis. Mr.
English left here about five years ago. Mr. English will be remembered as a poet of considerable ability, his verses appearing in the local papers. He is survived by his widow and one son, Walter English.

REORGANIZATION STARTS FRIDAY

First Precinct Meeting Will Be Held
to Elect Committeemen and Convention Delegates

P. J. LYNCH MAY BE CHAIRMAN

Probable Choice of County Committee for Chairman is not Mentioned Yet.

The reorganization of the Republican party in Indiana will start "from the ground up" Friday. Then the first precinct meetings will be held in Rush county, as well as in other counties in the state, to elect committeemen and delegates whose respective duties it shall be to elect county and district chairmen.

Notice has been given elsewhere in the Republican for several days of the precinct meetings. Only a few will take place Saturday. An unusually large attendance is anticipated because a renewed interest is being shown in party affairs.

The delegates who are elected by the counties will meet at Cambridge City next Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock and select a district chairman. P. J. Lynch, of Newcastle, an active and energetic business man, will in all probability be the choice of the convention, as he is the only candidate who has been mentioned.
Mr. Lynch has been attending to the duties of the Sixth district chairman, Linus P. Meredith, who retired.

The new committeemen, who will be elected by the townships, will meet Monday in the court house and reorganize the county central committee by electing a chairman, secretary and other officers.

Rush county is entitled to fourteen delegates to the district convention.
Each township will elect one delegate, with the exception of Rushville township, which will elect three delegates.

Mayor C. L. Bebout is the present county chairman, but it is not known who his successor is likely to be. No names have been mentioned promi-nently in this connection.

VERY QUIET IN COURT

It was quiet in court today, there being no cases set for trial. Judge Megee expected the damage suit, which started Tuesday and which was compromised yesterday to continue today and as a result the calendar was vacant. The petition of the Allen and Nipp Realty company to change its name was granted.
The firm is now known as the Robbins-Nipp company.

Lurline council No. 296 will have degree work in the Red Men's hall tonight. A full attendance is desired because business of importance will be transacted.

DEGREE WORK MARKS CLOSE

District Meeting of Odd Fellows Ends With Inspection and Initiation of Class.

MANY ATTEND PUBLIC MEET

Grand Lodge Officers of All Branches Present and Addresses Are Given—Visitors Present.

The district meeting of the Odd Fellows lodge closed last night with the exemplification of the first degree by the degree staff of Indianapolis lodge No. 465 and the inspection of the Rebekah lodge by the president of the State Assembly, Mrs. Ida VanDorin of Indianapolis.
The officers of the grand lodge and other branches of the order were in Greenwood today for a district meeting.

The meeting here was a great success and never in the history of the local lodge has all the officers of the various branches been present at one time before as yesterday. Every branch of the order was represented and all the grand lodge officials were here. The public meeting last night from 7 to 9 o'clock as well attended and an interesting program was given. Talks were given by William Nauer, grand master, of Vernon; Mrs. Ida VanDorin of the Rebekah lodge; Stephen O. Sharp, grand patriarch, of Indianapolis and
W. H. Leedy, grand secretary.

Visitors were present from Indianapolis, Connersville, Liberty, Greenburg and other places. The Lucas orchestra furnished the music for the public meeting. The addresses of all the visitors were well received and much favorable comment was heard regarding the meeting. Following the public gathering the degree team from Indianapolis conferred the first degree on a class of candidates.

The degree team is considered one of the best in the state and came here on a special car over the I. &
C. The party numbered forty-four.
The work of the Indianapolis team received much praise. At the same time that the work was being given in the Odd Fellows building, Mrs.
VanDorin, state president of the Rebekah Assembly inspected the work of the local Rebekah degree team in the Modern Woodmen hall.

A large crowd was present at this meeting and the Rushville degree team received many compliments from the state president. Tomorrow a district meeting will be held in Tipton.

WOULD END THEIVING HERE

Local People Bothered by Prowler Point to Shelbyville Case.

Rushville people who have been suffering at the hands of chicken thieves noted dispatches today from Shelbyville which stated that Judge Blair had yesterday sentenced three chicken thieves, one man and two women, to one to eight years in prison. They feel that this will put an end summarily to petty thieving in the hen coups. The theft of chickens has been very common in Rushville only recently and people who have suffered believed that some decisive step will have to be taken to stop it.

In Dresden the mail authorities make special provision for the transportation of millinery and hats in boxes.

A REPUBLICAN DUTY.

Next Friday and Saturday the Republicans of Rush county will meet in their various precincts or townships for the purpose of electing members of the county central committee, also delegates and alternates to the district convention to be held at Cambridge City next Monday for the purpose of electing a chairman.

It is the plain duty of every Republican to attend these precinct meetings and take part in the beginning-at-the-bottom of forming the organization that is to direct the party for the next two years. Do not remain away from your precinct meeting and then complain afterward that this or that was not done or that this man and not that one should have been elected committeeman. If you are interested in the welfare of your party, attend the meeting and have a voice in its proceedings.

If you were a Roosevelt Republican in the election of 1912, you will be welcome at your precinct meeting, for it is there that you can contend for and accomplish the reforms that you stood for in 1912 and not by standing on the outside and throwing bricks.

PRESIDENT FAVORS TWO BATTLESHIPS

Tells Callers Today That he Always
Follows Recommendations of Cabinet Heads.

WOULD REPEAL EXEMPTION

(By United Press.)
Washington, Feb. 5.—For the first time President Wilson made it clear today that he favored the repeal of the exemption granted American vessels in tolls in the Panama canal.
He told callers he would use every effort to obtain such action through congress this session.

The President also made it clear that he stood behind Secretary Daniels of the navy in his recommendations for two battleships. He said that in matters he had always been disposed to follow the recommendations of the cabinet heads.

CHICAGO "DRYS" WILL FORCE VOTE

Leaders Announce Today That They
Will Count on Support of 153,-
000 Registered Women Voters.

75,000 SIGNATURES NEEDED

(By United Press.)
Chicago, Feb. 5.—The "dry" forces announced today that they will force a vote on the saloon question at the spring election April 7. They expect to file a petition bearing the names seventy-five thousand registered voters. They are counting on the support of 153,000 registered women voters for the "dry" cause. The announcement was a surprise. It was pointed out that if the petition was filed, Chicago will be the largest city in the world to vote directly on the liquor traffic.

Camels are the only quadrupeds

SAYS HE SHOT IN SELF DEFENSE

Walter Runyan, Charged With Killing Arlie Stull, Testifies in Crawfordsville Court Today.

EXPLAINS ACTS OF STULL

Says he Believes Dead Man Thought
Him Responsible for Circulating Stories About Him.

(By United Press.)
Crawfordsville, Ind., Feb. 5.—
Walter Runyan, on the witness stand today in his trial for the murder of Arlie Stull, testified that he shot in self defense.

He said he believed that Stull thought him responsible for circulating a story in regard to Stull's illegitimate birth and that Stull's attack was actuated by this belief.

Speaking earnestly to the jury, Runyan denied that he had ever been criminally intimate with Roxie Hart, the pretty cousin of Mrs. Runyan.

"I never violated her chastity and our relations were never of a criminal nature," said Runyan.

Runyan told how Stull left church
the Sunday night before his death
when the minister, quoting scripture, said, "He who is without hope may take his own life." Stull told Runyan later, the witness said, that he wandered about aimlessly until midnight.

It was expected that cross-examination of Runyan would begin late this afternoon.

Miss Hart concluded her direct and cross-examination last night.
Prosecutor Ira Clouser conducted a gruelling examination of this witness on which the state based its hopes, but failed to show any intimate relations between her and Runyan.

The prosecuting attorney brought out the clandestine letter writing, that they had been buggy riding and that there had been lots of hugging and kissing, but that was the end of the revelations.

Advertised Goods Are Usually of Better Quality

When a man puts an article on the market and advertises it he is giving it his personal endorsement.

He is creating a standard that he must live up to for all time if he expects to succeed.

He must fulfill all his advertising promises—and if she is a wise advertiser he will do a little bit more.

His hope of profit is the steady demand he wishes to create, and this can only come to an article with real merit.

The great advertising agencies which are expert in planning big campaigns frequently advise would-be advertisers to wait for months or years until they bring their product to a point where it is ready for exploitation.

All things being equal it is a safe rule to choose an advertised brand rather than one that has no particular sponsor.

It will generally assure you more satisfaction for your money.

It's what you get for what you pay, that counts.

WHAT COUNTS IN FARMING

United States Department of Agriculture Says Education and Business Methods are Important.

VALUE OF COMMON TRAINING

Under Average Conditions, Farm is No Place for Men Weak or Unable to Direct Work.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Farmers with a high-school education make nearly double the average income of those with merely a common school education, and those who start earliest make the most profits, according to the Department of Agriculture investigators. The Department's Office of Farm Management has been conducting a series of investigations in the corn-belt, which have brought out many details that should be of practical value to all agriculturists. These results have just been published in a new bulletin.

Under average conditions the farm according to this bulletin, is no place for the weak or for those unable to direct work. The man who intends to spend his working life in the country should start early, for success is not gained in a moment but by many years of persistent effort. It is true that some farmers have made small fortunes in a short time, but this is usually through a phenomenal rise in land values. Few men have become rich from the real profits of the land. Through skill in management and by hard labor a comfortable living and moderate profits may be expected. Those persons who are turning to the farm with the idea of reaping large incomes are doomed to severe disappointment.

Those making the poorest incomes were 28 years of age when they started farming and were past 30 when they became owners. On the average the oldest men are making the least profits.

Many farmers with very little schooling succeed, but these same men would do better if they had the opportunity of further training. No one ever hears a farmer regret that he spent a part of his early life in school.

Farming is a business the same as any other industry, and until our schools teach some of the fundamental principles governing profitable farming, the farm boy is likely to seek work elsewhere. Considering that the farm boys of today will be the farmers of tomorrow, too little attention is given to their training.

Many boys leave the farm because they see no future in it. Another important reason is the lack of profitable work at home. A moderate-sized farm is necessary to give employment to the farmer and his sons. The small farm does not provide work; hence, the boys must find employment elsewhere. Let them fully understand how farm profits and losses are made and there will be an incentive to remain. First make our farms profitable, and the question of keeping the boys there will solve itself.

Successful farming is an individual, economic problem. The farm is a combination of enterprises, and their individual organization will determine, in a large measure, its profitability. Sufficient area and a proper organization of well-selected farm enterprises to permit the maximum use of men, horses and machinery, are the essential characteristics of the most successful farms.

No one expects a small grocery store which has only a few customers a day to be a great financial success. The total amount of business is insufficient to earn the operator a substantial income. Exactly the same is true with the small farm. The volume of business is limited by the area in crops and the capital invested. The small farm furnishes a small area would hardly be able to live.

Wages are a reward for labor, and if a farm does not provide work the pay must be correspondingly small. The family-size farm, which in the corn belt should be above 100 acres, is unquestionably a more efficient unit than an area of 40 acres or less. Crops can be grown cheaper, labor will be better paid, and the farmer and his family will enjoy more of the benefits of modern civilization.

The farmer may have sufficient area and grow the right kind of crops yet not be successful, owing the poor quality of his entire business. Poor crops that do not pay the cost of production, and the feeding of these to unproductive live stock, are common causes of failure. This characteristic of unsuccessful farming attracts much public attention. Such farms are unprofitable largely through ignorance or indifference on the part of the operator. Under good management they can generally be made successful.

Diversity of the farm business: Improper organization of a large farm limits its possibilities, just as area limits the small farm. Single crops of single live-stock enterprises seldom utilize farm labor of its maximum. By having several crops there is not only better distribution of labor, but the chances of total loss from crop failures are lessened. Fortunately, corn, oats, and wheat utilize the farmer's time pretty thoroughly through the growing season. In some parts of this country certain crops that need labor only a part of the year may be so profitable that the farmer can afford to be idle the rest of the year. However, these are the exceptions. Most crops are not profitable enough to permit any such practice. Idle horses and machinery are nearly as expensive as idle men. If the working equipment can all be kept busy on paying enterprises, success is almost assured.

Equally important in the selection of enterprises to permit the maximum use of labor is the consideration of the profitability of each. Dairy cows and cash crops may utilize all of the farmer's time but in certain regions, possibly, dairy cattle under management could hardly be made to pay a profit. Markets and other conditions have to be carefully considered in choosing the enterprises which are to constitute the main sources of income. Fitting the right crop to the soil and selling it to the proper market or feeding it to the right kind of live stock are important factors. Following such types of farming as are unsuited to the region is often a cause of unprofitable agriculture in some of the older settled States.

The wide fluctuation in prices of certain crops makes it extremely difficult for a farmer to choose a definite rotation. One year they will be such as to give handsome profits on certain crops, and the next year they may be insufficient to pay the cost of production. The question confronting the average farmer is not so much one of production as it is of marketing. Most farmers are able to grow a sufficient quality of crops to give them a very comfortable living if they are assured of reasonable prices for their products. However, under present conditions the farmer has to take big chances with nearly all of his crops. If he is so unfortunate as to have a combination of crops every one of which is low in price in some particular year, severe losses will be the result. Potatoes, apples, peaches, onions, and cabbage are good illustrations of the crops that fluctuate widely in price from year to year.

The essential characteristics of the more successful farms are a sufficient area and a proper organization of well-selected farm enterprises to permit the maximum use of men, horses, and machinery.

The bulletin just issued gives in detail the results of the thorough study that the Department's specialists have made of farming as a business in the corn-belt, and can be had free upon application to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Bulletin 41, entitled "A Farm-Management Survey of Three Representative Areas in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa."

UNCLE SAM IS NOT WORRIED

Peruvian Revolution Does Not Disturb Washington Because Interference is Not Probable.

THE CONTRARY IS EXPECTED

Believed United States Will Recognize New Government if There is Any Semblance of Order.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The state department has received confirmation of the coup d'etat in Lima, Peru, by which President Billinghurst of that country was deposed and his secretary of war killed. Minister McMillan sent only a brief report, promising details of the revolution later.

The coup d'etat was wholly unexpected in Washington. Though it was well known that the political situation was disturbed, there was no expectation that matters would take such a violent course. Secretary Bryan said he had not taken action in the matter, and indicated that there will be none for some time. It is believed the administration will recognize the revolutionary government if there is a semblance of constitutional procedure in its organization. Confirmation of the results of the coup d'etat by the national legislature undoubtedly would be accepted by the Wilson administration and recognition of the government granted. President Billinghurst had been in a conflict with the Peruvian congress almost constantly since his election to the presidency by that body a little less than a year ago. The popular election was declared without result, and after a long delay Billinghurst was finally chosen by the congress. It was reported at the time that intimidation was resorted to to secure his election.

Last fall the congress refused to pass the budget presented by the government, and also failed to approve the government's recognition for the authorization of a $33,000,000 loan. President Billinghurst was obliged to continue the budget of the previous year.

President Billinghurst was known as a reform president. He brought on himself the antagonism of congress, however, by his efforts in the direction of economies and stoppage of waste of public funds. At the same time, however, he conducted affairs in a very high-handed manner and his political opponents were made to feel his hand against them. Former President Leguia was forced last summer to flee the country, and it is believed he may have had some connection with the latest coup d'etat.

Scottsburg Suffers Loss of $35,000 From Fire.

(By United Press.)
Scottsburg, Ind., Feb. 5.—The Odd Fellows building was gutted by fire today, causing a loss of $35,000. Poor fire fighting facilities tied the hands of the fighters. The origin is unknown. Four inches of snow covering the city prevented sparks from doing damage. The fire was first seen at 2:30 a. m.

HUGE FACTORY IS PROPOSED

Development of Army Supply Depot at Jeffersonville Promised.

Washington, Feb. 5.—A mammoth government manufacturing establishment is likely to be established at Jeffersonville in the near future. Representative Cox had a long and satisfactory talk with Quartermaster General Aleshire in regard to the development of the Jeffersonville supply depot. It is tentatively planned to begin the manufacture there of all sorts of wagons, ambulances and other vehicles needed in army transportation, as well as all sorts of leather goods required by the army. "I have my eye on the Jeffersonville depot, and you may expect it to grow rapidly in importance," said General Aleshire to Cox.

The Prussian government has decided on an additional issue of $50,000,000 in 4 per cent treasury notes.

SLUGGER TELLS A SENSATIONAL TALE

"Bat" Masterson Testifies Before Public Service Commission Concerning His Wrongdoing.

IS A FORGER AND PERJURER

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—Going back on his former employers' President Robert I. Todd and Superintendent T. F. Grover of the T. H. L. & E. Traction company, "Bat" Masterson, famous slugger during the recent street car strike, told a sensational story of his strike breaking work to the public service commission here today. That he robbed, slugged, forged and perjured were admissions Masterson made.

Testifying to his activity in the recent street car trouble at Terre Haute, the witness swore Todd sent him to Grover, who helped him obtain a list of union carmen in Terre Haute. From this, Masterson said, he forged the name of J. C. Colgan, a union leader, to a letter of introduction to a conductor named Hobbs who had the list.

Masterson said he also turned over to Grover papers stolen from Colgan's room in the Badger hotel. Grover ordered Masterson to swear falsely against union conductors regarding their "knocking down fares in order that union men might be discharged," Masterson swore.

GET NEW IDEAS ON ROAD BUILDING

Cameron and Herkless Inspect Rock Asphalt Material Near Bowling Green, Kentucky.

ARE ON TOUR THROUGH SOUTH

The following from the Bowling Green, (Ky.) Messenger will be of interest here: A. Cameron, of Rushville, Ind., road engineer and county surveyor of Rush county, Ind., and A. R. Herkless, ex-county road engineer of Rush county, were in the city yesterday, on an automobile tour through the south to ascertain the qualities of the various road building materials at different places. Both officials were highly pleased with the rock asphalt which is found near this city, and expressed a desire to put it in use on the Rush county roads.

Messrs. Cameron and Herkless left Bowling Green for New Orleans where they will make other investigations. Their tour will include points in Texas and other southwestern states.

ENDS SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

The Rev. F. B. Stearns Returns Home From Oxford, Ohio.

The Rev. F. B. Stearns has returned from Oxford, Ohio, where he held a union revival meeting, in which the U. P., the Presbyterian and M. E. congregations joined, for two weeks. The meeting was successful and there were over sixty accessions. The first Sunday night of the revival an overflow meeting of 600 was held at the M. E. church and the second Sunday night every available space in the church was taken. The Rev. Mr. Stearns, during the meeting, made an address before the student body of Oxford College for Women and Miami university. President Hughes of Miami called Mr. Stearns in for a conference of 45 minutes concerning the moral and spiritual welfare of the students.

A marriage license was granted yesterday afternoon to Clifford Horr and Ruth Woods.

Amusements

The Gem will show a sensational two reel 101 Bison for the first picture tonight. It is entitled "The War of the Cattle Range." It is a thrilling picture and the scenes are said to be very realistic. The climax comes when a hand to hand fight between the two leaders occurs. The third picture is a detective drama "The Heart of a Cracksman." The program is said to be an exceptionally good one.

The Princess will show the feature two reel picture "Wild Beasts at Large," tonight. It is said to be a great wild animal sensation and the situations are very funny. The circus prepares to unload at a town where it is to show when the animals break loose and take the town. It is said to be a scream from start to finish. The other is a Biograph drama "All For Science." Clara McDowell is shown in this one.

The Portola will show the usual three pictures tonight. The first is a Pathe drama "The Shadow of Shame," featuring Crane Wilbur. The second is a Vitagraph drama entitled "The Cure." Edith Story and Ned Finley are shown in this one. The last is a Pathe comedy "The Elusive Turkey." All are said to be good pictures.

Much Speculation Regarding Its Future Course.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The house of representatives, by a vote of 240 to 140, passed the Burnett immigration bill, regarded as the most drastic legislation of the kind proposed in many years. The measure now goes to the senate and doubtless will be passed by that body. Whether it will be approved by President Wilson is a matter of lively speculation among both the opponents and proponents of the legislation. The Burnett bill was bitterly opposed in the house, and members who were opposed to the bill made strenuous efforts to amend it, but without avail.

The fight against the immigration bill in the house was led by Representative Goldfogle of New York, who had the assistance of practically every other member from that state. When the bill was called up for final passage Mr. Goldfogle made a motion to recommit the bill with instructions to the committee on immigration to strike from the measure certain features, among them the illiteracy test. The motion was defeated by 241 to 126.

A provision of the bill is that proposing the exclusion of militant suffragettes or other persons identified with organizations that seek to effect government reforms by violence. Strict regulations are imposed with a view to excluding persons supposed to have criminal tendencies.

Another important change made in the existing law is the penalizing of steamship companies for bringing in insane aliens and imposing fines for such offenses ranging from $100 to $200 in each case. It is proposed also to exclude stowaways and deserting alien seamen.

The Taft Republicans now claim that the popularity of Wilson's administration is all due to legislation and the decisions of United States courts during the administration of Judge Taft. Wickersham, attorney-general under Taft says that the friendliness of the Big Business and the other interests to Wilson is due to court decisions under his own administration as Taft's official head of the department of justice. In other words, Wilson is stealing Taft's thunder!

WARNING ISSUED TO AUTO OWNERS

Notice Given That Machines Must Bear New 1914 Licenses When Run Now.

LAW VIOLATION OTHERWISE

The notice of automobile owners has been called to the fact that the old license tags issued for the last half of 1913, are no longer good and must be replaced with the 1914 tags. The tags issued by the secretary of state for the year are blue with white numbers. The old tags were yellow with black letters.

The secretary of the state has given notice that the applications for new licenses must be made out the same as last year. Some of the applicants have written for a new license referring only to, their previous number. In such cases the autoists have been informed that they must fill out the blank before a notary public giving the complete description of their machine. It will be unlawful to run a machine on the public highways unless it bears the new number, as the old license tags expired the first of the year.

TO BE NAMED AT AUGUST SESSION

Inspectors to Oversee Registration of Voters in County to be Appointed by Commissioners.

THEY ALL WILL BE DEMOCRATS

First Time in Many Years This Party Has Been in Control of County Election Machinery.

The inspectors who will oversee the registration of voters in Rush county this year will not be appointed until the August term of the county commissioners' court. As only one registration is to be held, and it just a month before the November election, there is no need for the appointment of inspectors and other registration officers early in the year.

Under the registration act of 1911, three registrations were required—six months, sixty days and thirty days before the election. Because of this, the registration officers who served two years ago were appointed by the commissioners at the March term of their court. The registration act of 1913 did away with all the registrations except that which is to be held a month before the election.

It is assumed that the registration inspectors who will serve in Rush county this year will be Democrats. The board of commissioners is Democratic and it will be only natural for Commissioners Moore and Aiken party at every opportunity. The registration board will have two clerks as before are to be appointed by the inspector, but he is to be guided in his selections by recommendations from the county chairman of the political parties casting the highest and next highest vote, respectively, in the last preceding general election.

The law prescribes that the registration board in each precinct shall hold a session in each year in which a general election will occur. Such session shall be held, the law states, on Monday, the 29th day before such election, and shall be designated the regular session of the board.

The inspector of registration shall receive for his services in the registration and before and after the registration, the sum of $3, and in addition thereto he shall be paid a sum equal to ten cents per mile for each mile of the shortest distance between his residence and the county auditor's office. The clerks shall receive $3 each for their services. In case a registration continues two days, or more, each member of the board shall receive an additional $3 for each of such succeeding days.

It is probable that the county commissioners will appoint election inspectors about the same time they appoint registration inspectors. It is assumed, too, that the election inspectors will be Democrats. It will be the first time for many years for the Democrats to be in charge of the election machinery. As it will be a chance they have been looking for ever since the county was organized, the chances are they will not overlook a job anywhere along the line.

Dogs have been among J. P. Scott's sheep and succeeded in killing two. Some of the dogs were killed, but don't know for certain that they have got all that was connected with it. A sheep is an animal that is easy to frighten. Just as soon as a dog appears, the sheep will break up and run, and nine times out of ten the dog will take after them. Dogs are good in many ways, but when they are found to be sheep killers, the best thing to do is to kill them as they never forget it and will keep it up more or less all their life.

ACCOUNTS FOR FAKE REPORTS

Exaggeration of Killed and Wounded in Battle Directly Due to Mexicans' Laziness.

CARRY .22 CALIBRE RIFLE

He Loves to Fight, But The Mexican Dodges Marching and Carrying a Heavy Gun.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 5.—The secret is out. The public long ago began to accept as a joke published reports that hundreds were killed in Mexican battles, for the number invariably dwindled down to a score or so. But there is a reason.

The exaggeration of killed and wounded in battle is directly due to the Mexicans' laziness. The Mexican, both federal and rebel, be it known, with few exceptions, carry the smallest army rifle in the world—a .22 calibre. Some carry a .30-30. The Mexican dislikes to carry heavy guns or heavy ammunition and these light rifles are no burden. The Mexican loves to fight, but when it comes to marching and carrying a gun, that is work, and he wants to get out of as much of that as possible. There is no glory in carrying a heavy gun.

This discovery was made by William H. McGrath, representing the National Red Cross Society. He found that Mexicans who had fallen in battle suffered from very small bullet wounds and further investigation revealed the fact that they carried the lightest weapons possible. McGrath has just returned from a trip along the border and throughout North Mexico where he saw much fighting. During the day of the heaviest fighting at Nuevo Laredo when the rebels tried to capture the town, 125 "fatally" wounded soldiers were counted as dead, were cared for by the Red Cross corps. Only four of the Mexicans died as the wounds of the majority were slight. This is about the average percentage of deaths of those cared for, asserts McGrath, which leads to the reports being sent out that a great many are killed. They are seen to fall and they are carried away on stretchers and the correspondents and even the generals are honestly deceived. So when one reads a headline: "200 Die in Mexican Battle" it may be generally taken for granted that there is one cipher too many. This has been the case in every Mexican battle in the last several years. The slaughter is not so terrible as understood. The greatest suffering, according to the Red Cross agent, is not on the battlefield but in the camps and in homes, where there is need of food, fuel and clothes. "Because small calibre guns are used," McGrath says "the war may continue for a much longer period than expected; in fact that is the reason why it already has lasted so long."

AFTER AUTOMOBILE PARTS

Thieves at St. Paul Make Two Good Hauls in Short Time.

Carl Wolfe, a St. Paul business man Tuesday discovered that several dollars worth of automobile accessories had been stolen from him, probably Monday night. His machine was robbed of two sets of tire chains, a new tire and three inner tubes. This is not the first time thieves have stolen this class of material in this vicinity. A few days ago Alfred Crisler's garage was broken into and several automobile parts of value were taken.

If the Legislature Would Pass a Law---

That every vehicle user in Rush County had to buy his vehicles where he could get the best bargain for his money and leave it to the majority of vehicle users in the county to decide, you would have to buy your next one from us or break the law. There is no question about this, as the majority has already decided we give them more value for their money than they can get elsewhere and have backed up their judgment by buying their vehicles from us. The road service you can get out of one of our buggies makes it an easy proposition for us to sell a customer the second time and also makes it easy for us to sell his neighbors and friends as our vehicle users are always satisfied and make us customers. We still have a few of those nice, roomy Storm Buggies in stock and also have a sample of our 1915 Storm Buggy that you want to see. It is the first Storm Buggy ever built that has sliding doors that can not rattle and also has several new features you want to see. Bring your vehicle business to us no matter what it is and we will take care of it.

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

By BURTON E. STEVENSON

CHAPTER X. Enter M. Armand.

EIGHT or ten years before the fair Julie—at least she was fairer then than now—had come to New York to enter the employ of a family whose mistress had decided that life without a French maid was unendurable. Rogers had met her, had been fascinated by her black eyes and red lips, had in the end proposed marriage, had been accepted and for some months had led an eventful existence as the husband of the siren. Then one morning he awakened to find her gone.

He had, of course, intrusted his savings to her, and the savings were gone also. Julie, it seems, had been overcome with longing for the Paris asphalt, and she had flown back to France. Rogers had thought of following; but, appalled at the difficulty of finding her in Paris, not knowing what he should do if he did find her, he had finally given it up and had settled gloomily down to live upon his memories. Some sort of affection for her had kept alive within him, and when he opened the door of Vantine's house and found her standing on the steps he was as wax in her hands.

When the story was finished Julie was quite herself again, even a little proud, I think, of holding the center of the stage in the role of siren. "This is all true, I suppose?" asked the veiled lady.

"All quite true, madame," answered Julie, with a shrug. "I am older now and have more sense; besides, I am no longer sought after as I was."

"And so," said madame, with irony, "you are now no doubt willing to return to your husband?"

"I have been considering it, madame. One must have a harbor in one's old age."

I glanced at Rogers and was astonished to see that he was regarding the woman with affectionate admiration.

"I have hesitated," she added, "only because of madame. Where would madame get another maid such as I?"

"We will discuss it," said the veiled lady, "when we are alone. And now, perhaps, you will be so good as to tell us of your previous visit here."

"One day on the boat as I was looking down at the passengers of the third class that I perceived Georges—M. Drouet—strolling about. I was bouleversée—what you call upset with amazement, and then he looked up and our eyes met, and he came beneath me and commanded that I meet him that evening. It was then that I learned his plan. It was to secure those letters for himself and to dispose of them."

"To whom?" asked Godfrey.

"To the person that would pay the greatest price for them, most certainly. They were to be offered first to madame at 10,000 francs each. Should she refuse they were then to be offered to M. le Duc—he would surely desire to possess them!"

The veiled lady shivered a little. "That night," continued Julie, "I decided that at the first moment I would hasten to this house; I would explain the matter to M. Vantine; I would persuade him to restore to me the letters with which I would fly to madame. I knew also that I could rely upon her gratitude."

"It was not until evening that I found an opportunity to leave madame. I hastened here; I rang the bell, but I confess I should have failed, I should not have secured an entrance if it had not been that it was my husband who opened the door to me. M. Vantine himself came into the hall, and I ran to him and begged that he bear me. It was then that he invited me to enter this room."

She paused again, and a little shiver of expectancy ran through me. At last we were to learn how Philip Vantine had met his death!

"I sat down," continued Julie. "I told him the story from the very beginning. He listened with much interest, but when I proposed that he should restore to me the letters he hesitated. He walked up and down the room, trying to decide, then he took me through that door into the room beyond. The cabinet was standing in the center of the floor, and all the lights were blazing."

"I went to the cabinet and pressed on the three springs, as I had seen madame do. The little handle at the side fell out, but suddenly he stopped me."

"Those letters do not belong to you," he said. "They belong to your mistress. I cannot permit that you take them away, for, after all, I do not know you. You may intend to make some bad use of them."

"He brought me back into this room. I could have cried with rage!"

"Return to your mistress," he said, "and inform her that I shall be most happy to return the letters to her. But it must be in her own hands that I place them."

"I saw that it was of no use to argue further. He was adamant. So I left the house, he himself opening the door for me. And that is all that I know, madame."

Julie grew a little crimson. "No, monsieur," she said. "I told her nothing. I feared that without the letters she would misunderstand my motives."

"And then, of course, without the letters, there would be no reward," Godfrey supplemented.

The veiled lady rose. Julie resumed her veil, shooting at Godfrey a glance anything but friendly. The veiled lady turned to me and held out her hand.

"I thank you, Mr. Lester, for your kindness," she said. "Come, Julie," and she moved toward the door, which Rogers hastened to open.

Mr. Hornblower nodded and passed out after them, and Godfrey and I were left alone together.

"Well," said Godfrey—"well, what a story it would make! And I can't use it. It's a bitter reflection, Lester."

"It would certainly shake the pillars of society," I agreed. "I'm rather shaken myself. I hadn't any idea this was the right cabinet. I didn't see how it could be."

"That's it exactly. How did it happen when the veiled lady went to Armand & Son in Paris that she was directed to Philip Vantine? According to his own story, he did not purchase this cabinet. He had never seen it before. It was presumably shipped him by mistake. Armand & Son cable you that it was a mistake, and yet they cite Vantine as the purchaser."

"There is no poisoned mechanism about that drawer, that's sure," I added.

"No, and never has been," Godfrey agreed.

"And that leaves us all at sea, doesn't it? But there is one thing sure. The killing, whatever its cause, was done out there in the anteroom, not in here."

"What makes you think that?"

"We believe that Drouet came here to get Vantine's permission to open this drawer and get the letters, saw the cabinet, tried to open the drawer and was killed in the attempt. But it is evident enough now that there is nothing about that drawer to hurt anyone."

"Yes, that's evident, I think," Godfrey agreed.

"If he had opened the drawer, then, he would have taken the letters, since there was nothing to prevent him. Since they were not taken it follows, doesn't it, that he was killed before he had a chance at the drawer? Perhaps he never saw the cabinet. He must have been killed out there in the anteroom a few minutes after Parks left."

"And how about Vantine?" Godfrey asked.

"If he had opened the drawer," I pointed out, "and been killed in the act of opening it, it would have been found open. I had thought that perhaps it closed of itself, but you see that it does not. You have to push it shut and then snap the handle up into place."

"That's true," Godfrey assented. "Neither of them opened the drawer. But there is an alternative. The hand that killed Drouet and Vantine may also have closed the drawer."

"And left the letters in it?" I questioned. "Surely not!"

He glanced at the shuttered window. "Besides," I protested, "how would he get in? How would he get away? What was he after if he left the letters behind?" Then I rose wearily. "I must be getting back to the office," I said. "This is Saturday, and we close at 2. Are you coming?"

"No," he answered. "If you don't mind I'll sit here awhile longer and think things over, Lester. Perhaps I'll blunder on to the truth yet!"

I got back to the office to find that M. Felix Armand of Armand & Son had called and, finding me out, had left his card, with the penciled memorandum that he would call again Monday morning.

Vantine's will was probated next morning. He directed that his collection of art objects be removed to the museum and that the house and such portion of its contents as the museum did not care for be sold for the museum's benefit. I was requested to remain in charge of things for a week or two until arrangements for the removal could be made.

I acquiesced in all these arrangements, but I was feeling decidedly blue when I found myself back in the office.

"Gentleman to see you, sir," said the office boy as I sat down at my desk, and a moment later M. Felix Armand was shown in to me. Ruddy faced, bright eyed, with dark, full beard and waving hair almost jet black, he gave the impression of tremendous strength and virility. There was about him, too, an air of culture not to be mistaken. I was both impressed and charmed by him.

"I speak English very badly, sir," he said as he sat down. "If you speak French—"

"Not half so well as you speak English," I laughed. "I can tell that from your first sentence."

"In that event I will do the best that I can," he said, smiling, "and you must pardon my blunders. First, Mr. Lester, on behalf of Armand & Son, I must ask your pardon for this mistake, so inexcusable. We cannot find for it an explanation. The cabinet which was purchased by Mr. Vantine remained in our warehouse, and this other one was boxed and shipped to him. We are investigating most rigidly."

"Then Mr. Vantine's cabinet is still in Paris?"

"No, Mr. Lester; the error was discovered some days ago, and the cabinet belonging to Mr. Vantine was shipped to me here. It should arrive next Wednesday on La Provence. I shall myself receive it and deliver it to Mr. Vantine."

He sat staring at me for a moment. "Did I understand that you said Mr. Vantine is dead?" he stammered.

I told him briefly as much as I knew of the tragedy.

"It is curious you saw nothing of it in the papers," I added. "They were full of it."

"I have been visiting friends at Quebec," he explained. "It was there that the message from our house found me commanding me to hasten here. A blunder of this sort we feel as a disgrace. I have met Mr. Vantine many times. He was a real connoisseur. We have lost one of our most valued patrons. You say that he was found dead in a room at his house?"

"Yes, and death resulted from a small wound on the hand, into which some very powerful poison had been injected."

"That is most curious. In what manner was such a wound made?"

"That we don't know. I had a theory—"

"Yes?" he questioned, his eyes gleaming with interest.

"A few hours previously another man had been found in the same room, killed in the same way."

"Another man?"

"A stranger who had called to see Mr. Vantine. My theory was that both this stranger and Mr. Vantine had been killed while trying to open a secret drawer in the Boule cabinet. Do you know anything of the history of that cabinet, M. Armand?"

"We believe it to have been made for Mme. de Montespan by M. Boule himself," he answered. "It is the original of one now in the Louvre which is known to have belonged to the Grand Louis."

"It was Mr. Vantine's correct guess at the history of the cabinet," I explained, "which gave me the basis for my theory. A cabinet belonging to Mme. de Montespan would, of course, have a secret drawer. What more natural than that it should be guarded by a poisoned mechanism?"

"What more natural, indeed! It is good reasoning, Mr. Lester," he agreed eagerly, his eyes burning like two coals of fire, so intense was his interest. "I have been from boyhood a lover of tales of mystery. I am fascinated."

"Perhaps you can assist us," I suggested, "for that theory of mine has been completely disproved."

"Disproved? In what way?" he demanded.

"The secret drawer has been found."

"How?" he cried, his voice sharp with surprise. "Found? The secret drawer has been found?"

"Yes, and there was no poisoned mechanism guarding it."

He breathed deeply for an instant; then he pulled himself together with a little laugh.

"Really," he said, "I must not indulge myself in this way. Was the drawer empty?"

"No; there was a packet of letters in it."

"Delicious! Love letters, of a certainty! From the Grand Louis to the Montespan, perhaps?"

"Since the letters have been returned," he said at last, a little dryly, "it is useless to discuss the matter. Has not other explanation been found for the death of Mr. Vantine and of this stranger? You do not even know who he was?"

"Oh, yes, we have discovered that. He was a worthless fellow named Drouet, living in an attic in the Rue de la Euclette, in Paris."

M. Armand had been gazing at me intently, but now his look relaxed, and I fancied that he drew a deep breath as a man might do when relieved of a burden.

"You did not, by any chance, know him?" I asked carelessly.

"No, I think not. But I do not understand what this Drouet, as you call him, was doing in the house of Mr. Vantine."

"He was trying to get possession of the letters," I said. "What none of us understands, M. Armand, is how he was killed. Who or what killed him. How was that poison administered. Can you suggest an explanation?"

"It is a nice problem," he said. "A most interesting one. I will think it over. Mr. Lester, I shall see you again Wednesday. If it is agreeable to you we can meet at the house of Mr. Vantine and exchange the cabinets."

"At what time?"

"I do not know with exactness. There may be some delay in getting the cabinet from the ship. Perhaps it would be better if I called for you?"

"Very well," I assented. "To be continued."

SAYS THERE IS NEWS MONOPOLY

N. Y. Sun Throws Down Gauntlet to Associated Press in Complaint Made to Atty General

DEMANDS AN INVESTIGATION

Declares That Powerful Organization Be Compelled to Obey Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Washington, Feb. 5.—In a complaint submitted to the department of justice, the New York Sun has thrown down the gauntlet to the Associated Press, and thrown it down fairly hard. Officially and legally it is the complaint of the Sun Printing and Publishing association, setting forth that the Associated Press is a monopoly and praying the attorney general to institute proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust law to stop such a monopoly.

The complaint was filed with Attorney General McReynolds, and after the filing it was said at the department of justice that the attorney general would give the matter considerable thought with a view to determining whether or he would order an investigation into the facts alleged by the Sun. If the attorney general feels that the charges made in the complaint indicate a violation of the Sherman law, he probably will turn the matter over to Assistant Attorney General Todd, who attends to most of the administration anti-trust cases, for investigation. Or if he deems the showing on the complaint alone sufficiently strong he may order that proceedings be taken under the Sherman law.

The complaint argues that the collection of news, its reduction to literary form and distribution to newspapers is a recognized commercial business and that such sale of news and its transmission from state to state is interstate commerce in the meaning of the federal constitution and in the scope of the Sherman anti-trust law. The complaint lays great stress upon the supreme importance to the American people of a free transmission of news.

It is pointed out that the Associated Press, leasing over 25,000 miles of telegraph wires in all the states, operating them daily by its own employees and sending over them often as many as 60,000 words (over forty columns) a day, is really operating a telegraph company.

Then follows a brief history of the Associated Press and other news agencies, designed to show that the Associated Press has unlawfully monopolized the collection and distribution of world news, and still is doing so.

The Sun names fifteen specific instances in which it charges that the Associated Press has tried to boycott it and injure its business. These instances began in 1894 and are spread over nineteen years.

The concluding argument is placed upon the broad ground of prejudice to the public interest and welfare inherent in such a monopoly as is charged.

LOSES SEAT BY ONE VOTE

Senate Declines to Receive Frank Glass Into Its Midst.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Frank P. Glass, publisher of the Birmingham News, who was appointed by Governor O'Neil of Alabama, as senator ad interim to succeed the late Joseph P. Johnston, came within one vote of securing the seat. After two days of stirring debate the resolution declaring Mr. Glass entitled to the seat was lost by a vote of 31 to 32.

The issue in the case of Mr. Glass was as to the authority of Governor O'Neil of Alabama to make an appointment pending an election by the people of that state of a senator. Governor O'Neil took the ground that the constitutional amendment for direct election of senators could not affect the term of any senator chosen before the constitutional amendment was ratified. He held that the "term" was the full six-year term for which Senator Johnston had been elected. He refused to call an election to fill the vacancy.

JOSEPH CASSIDY.

Ex-Boss of Brooklyn Tried For Bribery.

New York, Feb. 5.—Joseph Cassidy, former Democratic boss of Queens county, and William Willett, a former member of congress, were sentenced to serve not more than a year nor less than six months in Sing Sing prison and to pay $1,000 fine. Louis T. Walter, a politician, was sentenced to three months and was fined $1,000. Willett was convicted of paying a bribe to Cassidy for a supreme court nomination. Walter was the go-between.

IN AN ATTITUDE OF "WATCHFUL WAITING"

Uncle Sam Takes No Further Action in Mexico.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The administration, following its action in raising the embargo on the shipment of arms to Mexico from the United States, promptly reverted to its policy of "watchful waiting." It was indicated at the state department that there is no further step in contemplation, and that this government will sit back and wait for the Constitutionalists to do the work of ridding the country of Huerta and his government.

Apprehension that the announcement of the raising of the embargo would result in disorders in Mexico City and attacks on Americans, were largely dispelled with the receipt of unofficial reports that the situation remained quiet in the Mexican capital. Huerta is reported to have told Charge O'Shaughnessy that he would not ask him to leave the country and that he would take no action in retaliation against the United States government. This assurance was regarded as conclusive and little if any fear is now entertained of disorders in Mexico City as a result of the president's action. Mr. O'Shaughnessy has reported that the city is quiet and that no disorders are feared.

Secretary Garrison said that so far as his department was concerned the president's order would not affect the present disposition of troops along the border. In the meantime Villa's agents are placing rush orders for large shipments of arms and ammunition at El Paso and New Orleans.

ESCAPED PRISON PENALTY

Sentences Suspended in the Case of the Littauer Brothers.

New York, Feb. 5.—Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in the United States district court, sentenced ex-Congressman Lucius N. Littauer and his brother, William Littauer, to prison terms of six months each, as well as fining them $1,000 apiece. The judge announced, however, that the brothers, who had pleaded guilty to smuggling a diamond tiara into the country would be released on suspended sentence for the period of five years.

Judge Thomas made it clear that he was allowing the Littauers to go free on the consideration that their plea of guilty had saved the government the expense of trial; that they made full restitution of their civil liability by paying $14,000 to the government, and that Lucius Littauer is a sick man.

Rushed in to His Death. Tarrytown, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Frank Vincent Millard, for six years surrogate of Westchester county, was struck and instantly killed by an express train. The gates were down, but Mr. Millard pushed them up and slid under. He was so intent on watching his train coming south that he did not see the northbound train approaching.

Traction Line Under Hammer. Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 5.—Local capitalists are organizing a company to make a bid on the Fort Wayne and Springfield interurban line, extending from this city to Decatur, which has

INDIANA MAN ESCAPES KNIFE USING MAYR'S STOMACH REMEDY

Charles Inman Able to go to Work After Operation Was Advised.

Charles Inman, 424 East Chestnut Street, Hartford City, Ind., was desperately ill. He was advised to go to Fort Wayne for an operation.

Then he took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and in a short time was able to go back to work. In a letter he said:

"My disease started seven years ago. I had to give up and go to bed. Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on, and that it would cost $150 or $200. My daughter saw your advertisement and I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but one-half day since from sickness. It surely saved my life."

Similar stories of health restored are told in letters from people all over the United States. Mayr's

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucus accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operation and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitations, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to Frank E. Wolcott's drug store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. T. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting street, Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful effects.

DISAPPEARANCE MYSTERY

Former Clarksburg School Teacher Causes A Sensation.

People in the vicinity of Clarksburg and southern Rush county who remember George Gallup when he was connected with the Clarksburg schools, will be surprised to learn that he has disappeared mysteriously from Denver, Colo., where he was vicar of the St. John's cathedral. Dean H. Martin Hart, according to dispatches would not comment on the case other than the vicar. "Like many other people, did unworthily, and took himself off, where, I do not know. He certainly was demoralized and wholly unnerved."

Elder C. W. Radcliff of Connersville will preach at the Primitive Baptist church Friday evening at seven-thirty o'clock.

EUREKAS WERE EASY WINNERS

Milroy Team Had Little Difficulty in Defeating Gray Specials of Acton, 32 to 12

MOSCOW WINS CLOSE ONE

(Special to the Daily Republican.)
Milroy, Feb. 5.—In a slow and uninteresting game of basketball here last night the Eureka Independent team defeated the Gray Specials of Acton by the score of 32 to 12. The game was exceedingly slow, neither team playing up to their usual form. The feature of the game was the goal shooting of Morris, center for Milroy. He made seven field goals and threw six foul goals out of nine free throws. Harecourt of Milroy threw five goals.
Acton made only four goals, and were never dangerous at any time. The curtain raiser was played by the Moscow and the Second Eureka teams and resulted in a victory for Moscow by the score of 24 to 23, being much more interesting of the two games. The Eureka play the Manilla Independents next Wednesday night and a hard game is expected. Milroy has one victory over Manilla and expect to win again.

BRYAN BEFORE COMMITTEE

Urges Legislation on Asiatic Exclusion be Dropped.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 5.—Secretary Bryan was the principal in a close "gentleman's agreement" with the House immigration committee today by which anti-Japanese legislation will be positively banned for the present. For an hour Secretary Bryan urged the committee to prevent agitation of Asiatic exclusion legislation. His statement was made in great secrecy behind closed doors. Before he left the committee agreed that nothing should be made public.

FAMILY QUARREL ENDS IN TRAGEDY

John E. Dimmitt, a Young Farmer, Shoots Brother-in-Law, Dr. Williams, Near Boonville.

HE MISTREATED HIS WIFE

Midwinter Meeting of State Democratic Editorial Association Opens this Afternoon.

Boonville, Ind., Feb. 5.—Dr. Quincy L. Williams, a physician of Folsomville, Warrick county, is lying at the point of death at his home from gunshot wounds inflicted by his brother-in-law, John Ernst Dimmitt, twenty-five years old, a young farmer.

Dimmitt, who gave himself up immediately after the shooting, and who was almost immediately released on bond, says that the shooting was in self-defense and in protection of his sister, Williams's wife.

The shooting occurred at Dimmitt's home, where Mrs. Williams was staying and to which the victim had gone in an endeavor to see her. Ill treatment of his wife by Dr. Williams is alleged to have caused her to leave their home about a week ago. She went to the home of her relatives and said she would not again live with her husband.

Dr. Williams is said to have armed himself and started for the Dimmitt place to get her. Young Dimmitt met him at the door and the doctor ordered him not to move.

Dimmitt saw that Williams was armed, and, picking up a double-barreled shotgun which was lying near, emptied both barrels. One load took effect in the doctor's arm and the other in his breast. The latter wound, it is said, will result fatally.

Dr. Williams is alleged to have been practicing a system of cruelty on his wife for a number of years. At the last regular term of the circuit court he was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill his wife, and was fined $250 and costs.

At that trial there was evidence that he had beaten her into insensibility on a number of occasions, and when she was on the stand she showed a number of bruises which she said he had inflicted.

Evidence was also adduced at that trial that he had on occasions threatened her life, and then when she filed a suit for divorce he told her he would soon get her out of the way. Soon after he was fined there seemed to be a reconciliation and the suit for divorce was withdrawn. Now, Mrs. Williams says that she withdrew the suit because of threats made by her husband.

After the suit was withdrawn she says her husband knocked her down and assaulted her in various brutal forms. A few days ago he whipped her and then caused her to kneel in front of a grate fire and watch him burn the only photograph she possessed of her deceased mother. This treatment caused her to leave her home and seek refuge at the home of her relatives.

LIQUOR DUMPED IN RIVER

Last Chapter in "Blind Tiger" Seizure at Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 5.—The final chapter in the long contest over the "blind tiger" seizure of liquors at the Fort Wayne fair ground in September, 1911, was written when A. C. Gladieux, sheriff, destroyed several wagon loads of beer and other intoxicating liquors confiscated on that occasion. The liquor had been in storage in this city in the long succession of legal steps in the noted case, ending in the affirmation of the lower court's order to destroy the liquor. It was hauled to the city dump and deposited with a crash that smashed the bottles and allowed their contents to trickle into the river.

Editors Meet at Indianapolis.
Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—The midwinter meeting of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association opened this afternoon, when the members and their wives and daughters held an informal reception in the parlors of a local hotel. At 7:30 o'clock a banquet will be served. Senator B. F. Shively will be the chief speaker at the banquet. Tomorrow morning the annual business session of the association will be held.

Butch McDewitt Cruelly Disappointed on Washington Visit.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Butch McDewitt, "millionaire for a day," from Wilkesbarre, who made a triumphal entry to the capital behind a band, with a statue of himself which he proposed to put in Statuary hall at the capital, was doomed to disappointment. Speaker Clark refused Butch's request for permission to make a speech from the steps of the capitol.

"President Wilson is jealous of me and wants to get me out of town," mourned Butch.

Local Phases of Situation Will Be Taken up at Meeting of Parent-Teachers Association.

The Parent-teachers association of the Graham high school building will discuss motion pictures at the regular meeting which will be held in the Graham building tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. Members of the other parent-teachers associations of the city have been invited, because of the wide importance to parents of the subject.

There will be a paper on the topic, in which local phases will be touched on, and then both the good and bad effects of motion pictures will be taken up in the discussions. The owners of the Rushville shows have been invited to attend and take part in the meeting.

The Parent-teachers association has already discussed with local motion picture show owners the feasibility of having a special program for children every Saturday used to make the innovation profitable if the shows here would try it. There are very few pictures of special interest to children made now.

HUERTA THINKS STUFF THAT REBELS WILL WIN IS BOSH

"Absurd," he Says When American Embassy Offers Him Protection If Mexico City Falls.

Mexico City, Feb. 5.—"Absurd," is the way General Huerta today characterized the United States embassy's offer of refuge in event the Rebels take Mexico City. He told the United States officials the Federal army is on the eve of a great victory and that the revolution would soon end.

"The question of my taking refuge in the American embassy is foolish," said Huerta. "Protection for me and my officers will not be needed."

PREPARES FOR TORREON

General Villa Will Lead Troops Against City Sunday.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 5.—General Villa, leader of the Mexican Rebels, will return to Juarez this afternoon to make minor arrangements for the decisive battle at Turreon. He will start Sunday for Turreon to lead his troops against the Federal garrison there. The engagement will probably begin Tuesday. The city has only five thousand Federal soldiers guarding it. Rebel agents reported a plentiful shipment of arms across the border.

Startling Exclusive Improvements Mark the 1914 Harley-Davidson

Step-Starter—Selective Two-Speed—Double Brake Control—Double Control of Free Wheel—Folding Foot Boards—Ful-Floteing Seat, and Other Improvements.

Step-Starter Starts Machine With Rider in the Saddle and Both Wheels on the Ground

THE 1914 Harley-Davidson is marked for the innovations it presents. Innovations, but not experiments, for every feature has stood the test of months and months of hard road service. The Step-Starter—an exclusive feature—furnishes the only practical method of starting a motorcycle. If the rider accidentally stalls the motor it is no longer necessary to hold up traffic on a crowded street, find a level place in the road, get off in the mud, and set the machine on the stand to start it. A downward push on either pedal and the motor again begins to throb.

Selective Type of Two-Speed

The Harley-Davidson selective type of two-speed has proven itself to be exceptionally reliable, extremely simple and wonderfully efficient. Its housing inside the rear hub, thus avoiding dust, dirt or damage. Its speeds are selective and the rider can shift from low to high or high to low or to neutral at any time whether the machine is standing still or in motion.

Double Brake Control

The new Harley-Davidson Band Brake may be operated by a foot lever on the right foot board or by back pedaling on either pedal.

Double Control of Free Wheel

Free Wheel Control is operated by hand or foot. With his hands on the handle-bars the rider has complete control of the 1914 Harley-Davidson.

Folding Foot Boards

The Harley-Davidson foot boards are unusually long permitting a great variety of positions according to the height of the rider. This overcomes the great objection to the ordinary type of foot boards built only to fit the ordinary man. With the Harley-Davidson foot boards whether the rider is tall or short he is not forced to assume an uncomfortable position.

Ful-Floteing Seat

For the third successive year the Ful-Floteing Seat is standard. This patented device floats the weight of the rider between two concealed springs, eliminating all jars and vibration due to rough roads.

Other Refinements

Over thirty desirable improvements are noticeable on the new Harley-Davidson.
